COOLIDGE MESSAGE TO DEVELOP STAND OF MEXICO

Await Response From Mexico On Coolidge Warning

President's Unexpected Message Of Monday Afternoon Taken As Warning

ANTICIPATE VIGOROUS REPLY FROM MEXICO

Congress Is Still Divided Over Situation—Many Oppose Coolidge Policy

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—President Coolidge's special message to Congress was accepted on all sides today as constituting a blunt warning to Mexico to keep "hands off" in Nicaragua—and a warning, too, that is backed up by the presence of 15 American warships and 5,000 marines and bluejackets in waters adjacent to Mexico.

Await Mexico's Reply

All Washington today was looking to Mexico City for the expected "come back" of President Calles.

No hint of the president's note, in which he virtually charged the Calles regime with promoting the Sacasa Revolution, has been permitted to leak to Mexico City prior to its delivery to congress. In fact, it was so carefully guarded that most members of congress were as surprised as Calles must have been.

It is anticipated here that Calles will make a vigorous reply, setting up the contention that Mexico is a sovereign power, and that she has as much right to recognize Sacasa

Make Effort To Provide Skating

Neshannock Creek Is Flooded Over Ice But Effort Is Not Success

Efforts were made Monday by Mayor William H. Dunlap to provide some good skating for the boys and girls of the city, on the Neshannock Creek, between the East Washington street bridge and the Rosena Furnace dam.

Condition of the ice on the river was such, however, as to make the effort of the mayor ineffective. Plenty of water was flooded over the ice on the river from a point just above the East Washington street bridge, but owing to the fact that the ice was in many places of a soft and porous nature and also the fact that there was snow on it in many places, resulted in the water filtering back into the stream under the ice.

The mayor is not discouraged, however, and if winter weather conditions continue, he plans to flood the river, possibly several times, until a fine coating of ice has been formed on top of the present ice.

The mayor provided for the expense of the effort to provide a skating place for the boys and girls of the city by using a number of the frequenters of the municipal bunkroom in the work.

Postmaster Not Likely To Be Named Before Latter Part Of April

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of New Castle News.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.— The postoffice department today requested the civil service commission to hold an examination for candidates for appointment as postmaster at New Castle to succeed the late Postmaster Judson C. Norris.

It is expected the commission will announce the examination in a few days and will fix a date about February 15 as the last day for filing application and examination papers.

The candidates will not be required to assemble at any point for the examination but will be rated as to their fitness judged by their education, general business fitness, and their experience with business affairs and work in executive capacity.

Edward W. Crawford, who has served for a long time as assistant postmaster and who handled the postoffice during the long illness of Mr. Norris will continue to serve as acting postmaster until after the examination and until a new appointment is made.

Crawford is qualified to take the examination along with others who have resided in New Castle for two years.

Everything is apparently all set now for selecting the new postmaster through the regular civil service routine with the congressman elect J. Howard Swick naming the appointee from the list of eligibles resulting from the examination.

Inasmuch as it usually takes eight weeks to name a postmaster from the time of the examination it is quite probable the new appointment can not be made before May 1st.

President Of Costa Rica Is Peace Arbiter

Making Effort To Adjust Troubles Of Revolution In Nicaragua

Copyright, 1927, International News Service

PURTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 11.—The president of Costa Rica is attempting mediation of the Nicaraguan difficulties and pending the outcome of his negotiations, the Liberals will consider no other proposals, Dr. Juan Sacasa, leader of the Liberals, declared today in an exclusive statement to the International News Service.

Dr. Sacasa's statement was made in response to an inquiry concerning reports that were circulated in the United States that the Liberals had sued for peace and that negotiations were already in progress with Admiral Latimer, U. S. N., acting as mediator.

Dr. Sacasa stated that while the Liberal party has never refused honorable efforts to re-establish peace, the only negotiations for settlement which it now recognizes are those being directed by the president of Costa Rica.

"I am pleased at the interest the American people are displaying regarding the Nicaraguan problem," Dr. Sacasa said in his statement to International News Service.

"The Liberal party has never refused an honorable understanding for the re-establishment of peace.

"At present, pending mediation of the president of Costa Rica, which I have accepted since January first, I am constrained from considering other propositions for the solution of the problem."

Start Work On Big Bridge At Morgantown

(International News Service)

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 11.—Work on the South Park bridge, which when completed will link two sections of Morgantown, began here today with the arrival of steel from Pittsburgh. The structure is to be one of the largest of its kind in West Virginia.

Mrs. J. R. Wright and son, Carl, Walnut street, and Mr. and Mrs. James Baline and daughter, Nancy, of the Butler road, have left for Mobile, Alabama, to spend the winter.

All Victims To Be Buried At One Funeral

Plans Are Being Made For Final Rites Over Victims Of Theater Fire

INVESTIGATION IS PROGRESSING

(International News Service)

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 11.—While the authorities moved forward formally today in their investigation of the causes of the disastrous fire at Daurier Palace Moving Picture Theatre Sunday, resulting in the death of 77 children, the sorrowing parents prepared to bury their dead.

Solemn requiem mass for all of the victims was to be held at the Hochelaga Roman Catholic parish church this morning. It was in this parish that the disaster occurred.

The coroner's inquest, which apparently will be based upon the violation of the law which prohibits the admission of children under sixteen into a theatre unless accompanied by an adult, was adjourned until Thursday.

Meanwhile, the fire commissioners' inquiry was seeking to establish the cause of the disaster, unofficially the cause was said to be defective wiring.

Ameen Lawand, proprietor of the picture theatre, was at liberty in $500 bail, and three employes were released in $100 bail each.

The Theatre Managers' Association appropriated $10,000 to aid families of the victims. All the city's charitable organizations have pledged assistance.

City To Employ Extra Firemen

Two Men Are Injured In Service Of Local Fire Department

Council today passed D. O. Davies' resolution calling for the temporary appointment of two firemen as a result of Fire Chief Lynn's report to the superintendent of public safety. The extra firemen will serve in the places of James Stockman and Harry Colley.

Colley was injured when he slid down the ladder in a fire house while answering an alarm. One foot was hurt.

Stockman fell yesterday when a ladder broke at the Kay building blaze. His leg is sprained and ligaments torn.

Lynn informally asked today that the ladder be replaced with a new one.

Arrest Hundred Chinese During Shanghai Search

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 11.—More than a hundred Chinese were under arrest and held for questioning today following a night of feverish activity during which the members of the Shanghai volunteer corps, police reserves, and the regular police made a thorough search throughout the city for unlicensed arms and for agitators.

The police search included all the thickly populated districts, in which shops and dwellings were entered and searched. Rickshas, automobiles and pedestrians were likewise searched and all persons questioned.

The situation at Hankow appears unchanged.

From Ichang it was reported General Yang Sen attacked two steamers bearing enemy troops, disarming them. Several passengers were wounded in the attack.

The evacuation of the interior by foreigners continued today.

Beauty Plans To Enter Parliament

Lady Beaverbrook, above, wife of the noted English publisher, has just announced that she may run for parliament, now that her children are grown up. She refused the seat from Aston in 1919 on the ground that, "you can't rear babies and run the government simultaneously." Lady Beaverbrook now is in the United States.

Mrs. Chaplin Charges Extreme Cruelty In Her Suit Asking For Divorce

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11—Charging extreme cruelty, Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, wife of Charles Chaplin, famous film comedian, today had a divorce suit on file against her husband.

The Chaplins were married at Empilme, Sonora, Mexico, on Nov. 25, 1924. They separated about two years later, on Nov. 30, 1926.

The separation of Nov. 30 was precipitated by a "party" which Mrs. Chaplin gave to her friends at her home. At that time Mrs. Chaplin asserted that her husband had insulted her guests and the next day she took her two children and went to the home of her grandparents. Chaplin denied that such was the case. He did say, however, that when his wife's guests became noisy, he requested her to ask them to leave.

Under five major headings, Mrs. Chaplin asked the court to grant her the following awards in connection with her suit for a decree:

1—A "reasonable" amount of temporary alimony.

2—A division of community property.

3—Attorneys' fees.

4—That Chaplin be restrained from disposing of his property.

5—That he be forbidden to visit his children or annoy her.

Other individuals and companies were made defendants, in addition to Chaplin, because of their connection with his business interests. They are: The Chaplin Studio, the Chaplin Film Corporation, T. Kono, Chaplin's secretary; Alfred Reeves, his studio manager; the United Artists, several banks and a number of other corporations.

Mrs. Chaplin's charges of asserted cruelty constituted a formidable

Nicaraguan Youth Accidently Killed By American Marine

(International News Service)

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, Jan. 11.—The first death of a Nicaraguan, caused by American forces, was reported today. A native youth was accidentally killed by a guard from the U. S. S. Denver. An inquiry is in progress.

The supply transport Argonne has arrived here with 400 men.

Rumors are current of an impending battle between the Diaz and Sacasa forces at Hama.

Orders from U. S. Admiral Latimer have been put into force making the entrance harbor of Pearl Lagoon neutral territory.

Informs Coroner He Will Soon Be Victim Of Booze

Man Walks Into Allegheny County Coroners Office And Prepares For Death

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11.—"I expect to be carried in here pretty soon. Don't bother to investigate, because it'll be bad booze that got me. Please notify my aunt in Johnstown, and see that they don't have me cremated."

With these admonitions, a man who identified himself as Daniel Webster Lucas, 54, dropped in at the county coroner's office here and prepared attendants for his return. Lucas said he was going out in search of bootleg booze.

His name was neatly printed on an identification tag, together with his parting instructions, and today awaited the corpse which Lucas predicted would be forthcoming.

Much Medicinal Whiskey Impure Declares Andrews

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Much of the medicinal whiskey sold thruout the country is impure, L. C. Andrews, dry chief, told the house ways and means committee today. He urged enactment of the bill creating a quasi-governmental medicinal whiskey corporation.

The attractions of the bootleg trade have become so great that medicinal liquor is "cut" at the warehouses, Andrews said. Only a few druggists, he added, are involved in diluting the whiskey.

QUAKE SHOCKS ARE REPORTED

(International News Service)

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Earthquakes, accompanied by subterranean rumblers, lasting three seconds, were reported today from the provinces of Beira and Coimbra.

Fireman And Woman Hurt In Ladder Fall Monday, Recovering

Condition of both Mrs. Mary Norris of the Kay Building, South Croton avenue, and James Stockman, city fireman, who were injured Monday afternoon during the fire that damaged the Kay building to the extent of aproximately $5,000, was reported today as being satisfactory and less serious than at first thought.

Mrs. Norris, who is 72 years of age, and has a crippled leg, which makes it impossible for her to walk, was removed to the Shenango Valley hospital immediately after the breaking of the ladder on which she was being removed from the burning building.

It was feared at that time that she might have sustained a fractured rib or ribs and possibly a broken shoulder, but X-Rays taken have failed to disclose any injuries of that kind. It is now believed that the extent of the injuries sustained is that of a very severe sprain and bruises and the resulting shock of such a fall to a person of her advanced years.

Removed To Home

Fireman Stockman was removed to his home following the accident, where it was found that his leg was badly stoved at the ankle and also that the ligaments of the ankle and leg had been torn. It will be several weeks before he is able to walk.

According to Assistant Fire Chief H. Clare Stockman, who was in charge at the fire, Mrs. Norris was

Vare May File Mandamus Action Against Pinchot

Vare Discusses Step With Campaign Manager In Conference Today

WOODRUFF ASSERTS PINCHOT NOT LIABLE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 11.—Senator-elect W. S. Vare may file mandamus proceedings in the state supreme court to force Governor Gifford Pinchot to issue a conventional certificate attesting his election to the United States Senate.

The possibilities of such a step were discussed today at a conference between Senator-elect Vare and Harry Mackey, City Treasurer and Vare campaign manager in the recent election.

Says Pinchot Not Liable

Harrisburg, Jan. 11.—The Governor of Pennsylvania is not liable to a mandamus action, such as Senator-elect W. S. Vare is contemplating filing against Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Attorney General George Woodruff said today.

The Governor's immunity to such action was established in 1876, Woodruff said, when mandamus action was filed against Governor Hartranft following the Pittsburgh riots.

Sixty American Warships On Duty

Battle Front Extends From China To Nicaragua—12,000 Men On Duty

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—On a far-flung "battle front" that runs from the China sea to the Caribbean, some 60 American warships, with a fighting complement of more than 12,000 gobs and marines, were vigilantly on duty today to protect American interests.

In Chinese waters, there are two-score vessels on duty, and ready to land expeditionary forces to protect American interests should the fighting between Chinese factions make it necessary.

The fighting complement of this force consists of some 7,500 bluejackets and marines.

Along the Nicaraguan 'front" there are six cruisers. Seven destroyers, one transport and some Auxiliary ships.

This force can muster approximately 5,000 rifles in the hands of bluejackets and marines.

New Investigation Of Pennsylvania Election Looming

Senator Robinson Seeks Probe Of Charges Of Fraud In Election

SENATORS DECLARE VARE'S FATE SETTLED

Declare That Action Of Governor Pinchot Aids In Certainty Of Plans

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Senate this afternoon ordered a new investigation of the recent Pennsylvania Senatorial election, by authorizing the Reed campaign fund committee to inquire into the charges of fraud and corruption raised against Senator-elect William S. Vare by his defeated Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson.

This action was taken without a record vote by adoption of the Robinson resolution calling for an inquiry into the charges made by Wilson in the latter's contest to win Pennsylvania's junior senatorial seat from Vare.

The senate also ordered the Reed committee to impound all ballots cast in the November election in Pennsylvania.

A special appropriation of $150,000 was given the committee to conduct the investigation, in addition to the funds left over from its inquiries last summer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A new investigation into the Pennsylvania senatorial election loomed today as a result of the contest filed against Senator-elect William S. Vare, Republican, by his Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson.

With Wilson supported by Democrats and insurgents in his fight to oust Vare and secure a senatorial toga for himself, the coalition planned to adopt the Robinson resolution authorizing the Reed slush fund committee to make a new inquiry. This committee's earlier investigation in Pennsylvania dealt only with the $3,000,000 primary and the Robinson resolution would order it to inquire into the charges of fraud and corruption raised against Vare's election.

To Demand Vote

The resolution was before the Senate committee on contingent expenses today—a regular formality—and Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, its author, announced he would demand a final vote on it within the next few days.

Another feature of the resolution will be to order the Reed committee to impound all the ballots cast

Davies To Ask For New Truck

Service Truck Will Save Many Runs For Big Aerial Ladder

Councilman D. O. Davies, superintendent of the fire department, today stated that he will ask that city council purchase a new service truck costing between $12,000 and $15,000. It would be paid for, he stated, if plans are successful, out of the proposed $100,000 bond issue to be provided for soon.

Davies says that a service truck, if bought, will answer all fire alarms. This, he explained, will eliminate the necessity of the aerial ladder truck answering alarms except when large buildings are on fire. In other words, the services of the aerial ladder will be confined to service in the second ward business district and Long avenue section, where there are some large buildings.

ELEVATED TRAIN CONDUCTOR SHOT

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Dennis Healey, a conductor on a Third avenue elevated train, was shot and killed early today by one of two men whom he had rebuked for pulling the emergency signal cord of the train.

When Healey warned the men he would have them arrested, one of the pair drew a revolver and shot the conductor, killing him instantly. The men ran to the street and escaped.

Poison Gas Fumes Fatal To Two Men

(International News Service)

RAVENNA, O., Jan. 11.—The bodies of Daniel McKay of Ravenna and Goodman Roache of Cuyahoga Falls were found in the lobby of a lodge hall here early today by a janitor who discovered an open gas jet nearby.

Coroner R. D. Worden declared the men had died of asphyxiation. He was unable to learn how or why the two had entered the building.

I saw a suit in a city store, of wondrous color and fit, and I knew that here was the very thing, I decided I wanted it. The price was high as you might believe, but I wanted that garment bad, but why I argued should I not wait, and talk to a home town lad. So I came on home to a local store, and looked through the suits they sold, blues and browns with checkers and plaids, and stripes of maroon and gold, and tucked away on the line way back, was the suit I had seen before, the suit I had envied and wanted bad, in the stock of the city store. Now the moral is this, I bought the suit, but I bought it at home you see, and the dollars I saved were two times ten, and a couple added, or three. For you'll always find that it pays you well, to buy from your home town store, its a duty you owe, and you save a lot, the weather is twenty four.

TWO COASTERS IN HOSPITAL

Pearl Street Brothers Hurt When Sled Crashes Into Auto

Elmer Rinne, aged 6, and Edwin Rinne, aged 9, of 739 Pearl street, were severely injured last night about 7:30 o'clock, while coasting on the sidewalk of Pearl street, when their sled crashed into the side of the automobile of Montgomery Rodgers of 109 North Crawford avenue, as it crossed Pearl street going north.

The injured boys were taken to the Shenango Valley hospital immediately following the accident by Officers Samuels and Dukes, where it was found that Master Elmer had sustained a bad fracture of the left arm between the elbow and shoulder. Master Edwin sustained a severe laceration of the scalp but was otherwise uninjured.

Both boys were still in the hospital today and reported to be doing fine.

The boys were coasting west on the Pearl street sidewalk, when the accident occurred and Mr. Rodgers, who was enroute north on Ray street, had no opportunity to avoid the accident.

A feature of the accident was the Stoicism of Master Elmer Rinne, who was the most severely injured. Following the accident, he got up and ran home. He was found by the officers at his home, not uttering a cry of pain or giving any indication that his broken arm hurt him.

He said that he didn't want to go to a doctor but was bundled into the police car and hurried to the hospital. While the broken arm was being set, he seemed rather impervious to pain and talked and even joked with those present.

Round Speaks On Development Of Electric Power

L. B. Round of the P.-O. Electric company, gave an interesting story of the development of electric power to the members of the Lions club at their weekly noonday meeting at the Elks club on Tuesday, January 11.

Mr. Round traced the invention of electric power down to the present day and gave a lucid description of how it is now a vital part of business and domestic life. From its modest beginning about 50 years ago electric power now equals about 200,000,000 man power per day.

Second Vice President John R. Ellison presided at the meeting, arranging the meeting in the absence of the king, W. D. Stitzinger.

in no immediate danger from the fire and he was in the room to persuade her to remain there, when the ladder was placed again the window of her apartment from the outside. She immediately decided to leave.

Firemen James Stockman and Norman C. Minner were on the ladder. Captain Alex. Hartman had gone up the fire escape and was standing at the window with one foot on the fire escape and the window, as Mrs. Norris was assisted out on the ladder by Assistant Chief Stockman.

With the aid of Hartman and James Stockman, Mrs. Norris, on account of her condition and weight, was assisted to a face down position on the ladder. Se was instructed to release her hold on the ladder as James Stockman, immediately below her stepped down, he bearing the brunt of her weight.

Hartman stepped back on the fire escape and building ledge and the descent of the ladder was started.

Everything was going nicely and those on the ladder had probably gone down three or four feet, when without warning the ladder broke under their combined weight and Mrs. Norris and Fireman Stockman were precipitated seven or eight feet to the sidewalk. Fireman Stockman threw himself in such a way, that Mrs. Norris landed on him and her fall was broken.

Cause Of Fire

The fire, the fire chief reports was the result of a mechanic in the employ of the Kay Plumbing establishment using the light of a candle in the cellar to cut some oakum, a highly inflammible material. He was working about the middle of the basement of the building, when some of the oakum accidentally ignited from the flames of the candle.

There were considerable quantities of the oakum, a tar product, in the place and the flames spread to this instantly. It spread to the stairway from the basement to the first floor. Burning its way up these stairs, fire communicated itself to the stairway to the second floor, which run up immediately over the basement stairway.

In order to stop the spread to the upper part of the building, the fire men cut away the stairway to the second floor. The loss is said to be covered by insurance.

The first alarm was turned in at 1:45 p. m. and the second at 1:55 p. m. Central, Park avenue and No. 6 hose companies and the aerial truck company answered the alarms and put out the blaze.

and encourage him as the United States has to recognize Diaz and encourage him. It is expected, too, that Calles will challenge the moral right of the United States to interfere with Mexican vessels in Nicaraguan waters.

Effect of Message

If Calles stands stiffly on his prerogatives that Mexico is a sovereign power, as it is expected he will, then an extremely delicate situation is automatically created— and one that may easily lead to an armed clash, for Admiral J. L. Latimer, in charge of American forces in Nicaragua, is under orders to prevent Mexican arms reaching the revolutionists.

Meanwhile, the president's message had the effect in congress of solidifying administration ranks behind the Coolidge-Kellogg policy, but it failed utterly to ally the strong opposition to it on the part of the Democrats and Insurgent Republicans. This opposition, if anything, was stronger than ever today, and it threatens to break out in a storm of no inconsiderable proportions.

By common consent, opponents of the president's stand will withhold their criticisms generally until after the appearance of Secretary of State Kellogg before the Senate committee on foreign relations tomorrow. Thereafter, however, it is expected to break forth violently.

The Democrats generally are out of sympathy with the Coolidge policy. Moreover, some of their leaders are distinctly angry over the events of the past week.

NEW INVESTIGATION OF PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION LOOMING

in the Pennsylvania election. Unless this is done at once, Robinson told the Senate, a portion of the ballots will be destroyed January 18 because of a special election in one of the state's senatorial districts.

The anti-Vare forces in the Senate meanwhile predicted that Vare never would be admitted to the Senate, even though Wilson failed to establish his right to the seat. The action of Governor Gifford Pinchot in refusing to issue regular credentials to Vare, it was said, sealed his fate.

Vare Followers' Plan

The reported plan of the Vare followers to get a "regular" certificate from the new governor, John S. Fisher, it was added, will only add to Vare's troubles. Both Democrats and insurgents said they would oppose admitting Vare either with Pinchot's "irregular" certificate or Fisher's "regular" document. In the latter case, it was said, the certificate would be classed as "irregular" because Fisher was not governor at the time of the election or the filing of the returns.

The opposition to seating Vare probably will rally around the resolution of Senator Dill, Democrat, of Washington. This would declare Vare's credentials "corrupt on their face" and deny him even the right to take his oath of office. As a vote cannot be taken until the new Senate convenes, when the Republicans will have but a single vote plurality, every indication points to its adoption, due to a combination of Democrats and insurgents.

Owner Of Cardinals Tells Cause Of Breach With Rogers Hornsby

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—"I don't approve of men who make their money playing baseball gambling it away on horse races," Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, told International News Service today in discussing the incidents which caused the breach between himself and Rogers Hornsby, former Cardinal pilot.

His statement was made in connection with the appearance here and the threat of Frank L. Moore, a betting commissioner, to try through Commissioner K. M. Landis and the courts to collect an alleged debt of $92,000 from Hornsby.

"I have nothing to do with this matter of Moore collecting his debt from Hornsby," Breadon added. "I told Moore that when he called me up and wanted to see me. That is a personal matter between them."

It had been known quite generally, although previously officially "denied," that Hornsby's friendship with Moore was the reason for the break in relations between the Cardinal owner and manager.

Moore appeared at the training camp of the Cardinals last spring in San Antonio, Tex., as Hornsby's guest. They were seen together about the camp each day. Breadon objected to the friendship and went to Hornsby, who at that time was on the closest terms with the club owner.

"Drop that man," was the substance of Breadon's edict to Hornsby, pointing out it did not look proper to have a betting commissioner in a baseball camp. Hornsby replied Moore was there as his personal friend and Moore stayed at the camp until the team came north.

National Banks Have Elections

Annual Meetings Of Stockholders Are Being Held During Day

Annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Lawrence county, the Union Trust Company of New Castle and Mahoning Trust company for the election of directors and the selection of officers, and also the transaction of such other business that come up at this time took place this morning at 10 o'clock in the Union Trust company building.

The only change in the personnel of the affiliated banking interests represented in these three organizations, was the creation of the office of an additional vice-president for the Union Trust company and the selection of Samuel Foltz for this position.

MAKE CHARGES BROWNING WAS MADE VICTIM

Attorney Asks That Girl Be Summoned As Witness In Coming Suit

(International News Service)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Charges that Edward W. Browning, elderly "Cinderella man", was "dragged" into marriage by his wife, "Peaches" Heenan Browning, and her mother for material gain, were made before Supreme Court Justice Frank L. Young today.

Francis Dale of counsel for the millionaire real estate man, made the charge in arguing for an order to take a deposition from Anna Olson, a telephone operator at Kew Gardens Inn, where the Brownings lived for a time.

Dale stated that the girl, whose testimony was needed in the approaching trial of "Peaches" separation suit, was planning to leave the state to avoid appearing in court. Counsel for "Peaches" opposed the application for a deposition on the ground that the testimony was not material or competent.

Dale read parts of an affidavit made by Miss Olson in which she told of conversations she had heard between Mrs. Browning and her mother.

One time, in speaking of plans Browning had for his adopted daughter, Dorothy Sunshine, Peaches is alleged to have said:

"I'm getting sick of all this. I'm going to leave."

To which her mother replied:

"Now you just wait until we get what we want."

The attorney said there had been a "deliberate scheme to drive Browning into marriage for five months or so until the material gain sought had been accomplished."

Justice Young reserved decision and instructed the attorney to return Thursday for further argument.

START SELECTION OF NORRIS JURY

(International News Service)

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 11.—Examination of prospective jurymen to try Rev. J. Frank Norris on a charge of killing D. E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman, was started in district court here today.

Surprising the prosecution, the defense announced "ready without reservations" when court was convened.

The work of selecting a jury to hear the case was begun immediately.

Thistle is said to have been adopted as the emblem of Scotland in 809. When the Danes were attacking the Scottish camp at night, their advance guard struck a clump of thistles, and several cried out, giving opportune warning of their attack.

Does a Guarantee Mean Anything?

The term "Guaranteed" has a very wide application. It frequently becomes so twisted in a business transaction that it means nothing to the purchaser.

The value of the term "Guaranteed" is based upon the policies of the organization with which one is dealing—their attitude toward fairness and justice. If a firm adheres to the practice of fairness and justice to every patron, then a "Guarantee" has a value.

MRS. CHAPLIN CHARGES EXTREME CRUELTY IN ASKING FOR DIVORCE

document of 42 pages. The document contained, among other things, the following:

1—That her husband said he would "make her so sick of him that she would not want to live with him for long."

2—That he accused her of "trying to hold him up."

3—That he charged her with being a "gold-digger."

4—That she was charged with trying to "ruin" his career.

5—That he told her marriage "militated against continued success in his profession."

6—That her husband did not appear in public with her more than four or five times during the first two months of their marriage.

7—That she moved out of their home early in their married life upon being advised to do so by her physician.

Mrs. Chaplin said her husband's actions worried her and her doctor recommended that she leave their home. Chaplin's wife also recited incidents of alleged neglect, saying her husband would not visit her at Catalina or Coronado while she and her mother were visiting there in 1926.

Chaplin's fortune is estimated in the suit at $6,000,000. His salary is said to be $250,000 a year and his income from other sources is said to bring that amount to $550,000.

A bitter contest for custody of the two Chaplin babies loomed today in connection with the sensational divorce complaint. Chaplin, it was learned, would agree to a "reasonable" property settlement, but he wanted his children where he could see them at all times.

Mrs. Chaplin, however, immediately countered with the statement that she desires to undertake the responsibility of raising her children and that she is a "fit person to do it."

SHADOW LAWN DESTROYED BY FIRE

THE burning of the beautiful estate near Long Branch, which served as the summer white house in 1916, closes a chapter of tragedy, comments the Inquirer of Philadelphia. The first occupant died two years after completing it. Two subsequent purchasers failed to develop it as they had hoped. The present owner enriched its interior with costly art treasures and the grounds with exotic shrubs and trees only to have them fall prey to the flames.

But perhaps the poignant significance of its name, Shadow Lawn, was most prophetic on the September day when President Wilson there received the official notification that the Democratic party had renominated him for a second term. The shadows of war were lengthening across America. That very day congress was rushing to enactment the Adamson law which the president was to sign on the morrow in Washington prior to a western trip.

An impending campaign of bitterness and an administration that was to end in the president's shattered health was possibly unsuspected by the guests at the time. His words did not carry well that afternoon to the outdoor throng as he read his speech of acceptance from the broad porch. Even this omen brought few misgivings to an audience lulled by the inspiration of the landscape. The exhilarating atmosphere of the seashore made one forget the lurking shadows of early autumn.

Finally, it was there he received the fluctuating election returns with their alternation of buoyancy and depression to his hopes. In a week the news of his victory was definite. In six months war was declared.

FAILURE OF GETTING VOTERS TO THE POLLS

MOST discouraging is the report of the National Civic Federation telling of the failure of the campaign to induce larger numbers of persons to go to the polls and take advantage of the right of franchise. Meetings to stimulate interest in voting were held in a thousand cities and towns. Co-operation was secured from a score of organizations, including the American Legion, and the United States Chamber of Commerce. But in spite of all this a decrease of 7,000,000 votes was shown in forty-one states over the 1924 election. There was an improvement in Arizona, Utah, Vermont, Maryland, Kentucky, New Mexico and Wyoming. But when the natural increase in population is taken into account, the campaign was a failure in the more populous states.

It is not easy to account for this apathy and still more difficult to know how it is going to be overcome. One possible reason is that the people are so well satisfied with existing conditions that they do not consider it necessary to vote. There is no doubt that the great majority of the voters are content with the federal administration at Washington. Yet Mr. Coolidge himself was one of those who urged them to go to the polls as a matter of civic pride and of patriotic duty.

Another reason for the present state of affairs so far as the ballot is concerned is that the women of the nation have not taken full advantage of the privilege recently given them. When pleas were being made for the extension of suffrage to them, it was argued that they would be the means of lifting the standards of government. But how are the standards to be elevated if these same women do not take the trouble to vote? It is only fair to say that large number never wanted to vote, and that others were indifferent to it. This argument does not excuse the men. They have always been offenders in the matter of non-voting, but probably never so much as at the present time.

Close fights and spirited contests sometimes bring out the vote, and then only by large expenditures for advertising and publicity purposes. The tendency now is to limit these expenditures. But will that increase the number of ballots cast? It does not seem reasonable. The non-voter is surely one of our serious problems.

CRAZY, MAYBE; WHAT OF IT?

NORMAL and average, strictly defined, are not synonymous. But in common usage they mean the same thing. When therefore, a Princeton professor, presumably recognized as an authority in his line, makes public assertion that out of 105,000,000 persons in the United States, "statistics show that 45,000,000 are subnormal and would never have the mentality of a child of 13; another 15,000,000 are feeble-minded and their brain power forever would be that of a child of 8," he creates confusion in the popular mind and excites derision as well. His opinion will not be respected more than that of the Indiana state board of health head who is quoted as saying the American people are going crazy so fast all will be imbeciles or maniacs a century hence.

The professor means standard or typical when he says normal, but what is the standard mental state of Americans? Who decided and how? It must have been arrived at by some process of comparisons. This should make average an important factor. If 60,000,000 are permanently subnormal or imbecile, gauged by the professor's standard, it is not possible he is vainly clinging to the impossible, and his opinion therefore is worthless?

Most mortals admit the rest are crazy or near it, yet get along pretty well. Probably future generations will be no worse off.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:54. Sun rises tomorrow 7:23.

New Castleites are divided into three classes by a local merchant, namely, those who pay, those who would pay if they could and those who could pay if they would.

"Bourgeois music unfit for proletarian society" is the description soviet authorities give to American jazz. American jazz isn't half as bad as the best thing they have in Russia as far as we can learn.

Bootleggers, it is claimed by prohibition authorities lost $1,205,627 in Western Pennsylvania through raids made by the prohibition officers and the bootleggers lost $23.13 for every dollar the government spent. It seems to us after the government has such a good line on the activities of the Booticians they ought to be able to arrest every one of them. Knowing exactly what they do and how they do it and not pinching them all looks sort of suspicious.

A Port Chester, Pa., banker 76 years old has married his chamber maid 43 years old. He evidently wants some one to work instead of to pose.

Almost ... changed in the last twenty years except boarding house butter.

A community dinner is to be held in Pittsburgh and representatives from the Chamber of Commerce in many cities in Allegheny county are expected to be present and they are building big on having at least five hundred persons at the dinner. New Castle beat the world on Community Dinners and letters are being received every now and then from the local Chambers of Commerce asking if it is realy the truth.

We had the extreme pleasure on Sunday afternoon of hearing a well known and popular lady singer of New Castle singing over the radio. It was our Mrs. Helen Urmson Felch and she was singing in New York. Her voice sounder better to us than any woman's voice we have ever heard on the radio. New Castle is proud of this talented singer.

About the only thing automobiles lack nowadays, we have noticed is an attachment like a phonograph to cuss the poor New Castle pedestrains for getting in the way.

A Chicago man got 14 years for kissing a woman against her will. We also noticed where another bird somewhere was soaked ten thousand beans for taking a kiss without the consent of a female. Kissing is getting very expensive in some places and some birds are even getting married after placing a few well directed kisses. There is a lot of danger in kissing outside the microbes.

We can remember in looking back over the years, the sweet little boy in long curls and kilt skirts. But in his place today we see a funny looking bit of humanity in anything from a sailor suit to overalls. They are even putting 'em in long pants as soon as they have learned to walk. Their hair is cropped, to boot and the picture of the little boy with curls and kilt skirts grows prettier in comparison.

Those people who talk to London on the phone at the rate of $75 for three minutes talk should be only for those who can hear and understand the first time they are spoken to. If those talk at that price who have to have every question repeated two or three times they will lose money. You know the kind we mean—they should never talk on any kind of a phone.

Who says that children do not brighten the home. Since a baby arrived at a Mahoningtown domicile, four months ago, the electric light bill has doubled.

About the only exciting thing this week will be the paying of some of the bills on the 10th of the month. What a sensation it would be if all bills were paid this week.

There isn't anything nicer or sweeter than a nice old lady.

Congress has made an appropriation of ten million dollars for the eradication of the European borer. This insect or whatever it is attacks roastingears and that is why uniformed men are camped along highways in roastingear time and they stop you and ask you if you have any corn on board and they get a lot of it we notice by the piles near the camp. A lot of people who just take the corn from some field without paying for it get nervous when roastingears are mentioned.

The Measure of a Man

Not—
"How did he die?"
But—
"How did he live?"
Not—
"What did he gain?"
But—
"What did he give?"
These are the units
To measure the worth
Of a man, as a man
Regardless of birth.
Not—
"What was his station?"
But—
"Had he a heart?"
And
"How did he play
His God-given part?
Was he ever ready
With a word of good cheer
To bring back a smile,
To banish a tear?"
Not—
"What was his church?"
Not—
"What was his creed?"
But—
"Had he befriended
Those really in need?"
Not—
"What did the sketch
In the newspapers say?"
But—
"How many were sorry
When he passed away?"

An attempt is being made to find a mountain in Vermont to name after President Coolidge. The mountains there of the unnamed variety are so scarce that the president will have to go along without having a mountain named after him. It may go hard with him to do that.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

One day about noon Jones called up a friend and said:

"I understand that Brown was at your house last night and not in A-1 condition."

"You heard right," admitted the friend. "He was here and very much intoxicated."

"Terrible, terrible!" ejaculated Jones. "By the way, was I there too?"

Early risers are always proud of themselves. Two farmers were boasting of their achievements in early rising, and one of them resolved to show up the other. So he rose one morning about two o'clock, went over to his neighbor's house and knocked on the door. The neighbor's wife called out,

"Who's there?"

"It's Jim Place," replied the visitor. "I'm looking for your husband. Where is he?"

The wife scented mice.

"Why, I don't know," she answered. "I guess he's around the farm somewhere. I have not seen him since early this morning.

Texas has started to harvest its 1927 spinach crop. In this broad land of ours it is summer somewhere all the time, but the summer brings no pleasure.

Federal financing of political campaigns has been suggested, but a few Senatorial elections in Pennsylvania and Illinois would cost the country more than a world war. The treasury couldn't stand it long.

In Russia divorces can be secured in two minutes. If Paris ever becomes too expensive or less attractive, we'll know where to go.

One million seven hundred thousand people in Pennsylvania have ... licenses so it seems that ... everyone in this state knows how.

The past of the Senators seems to be what is worrying the people these days rather than their future. The Senate is getting harder to get into than Heaven.

London has bloomed forth with a style of permanent waves for men. Pretty soon to be in style will be a steady job instead of just a side-line.

... dog is under the table instead of on the bed.

The persons holding political jobs at Harrisburg are reported to be nervous as the time for the inauguration of the new Governor and other officials of the state gets close. A good many of the present job holders will be out of luck, but that's the fortune of game. Political jobs are about the worst a man can have. No matter how efficient or how poor you may be, the new boss has his own friends to take care of.

Al Smith's boom for President was launched in the winter months perhaps, because the winter is nearly always a wet season. The summer is more likely to be dry.

Religion Still Alive.

Justice by Imitation.

Husband and Wife, Flying.

The Arabs Won't Like It.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1927, By N. Y. American, Inc.

Rabbi Browne says bolshevism has not succeeded in killing religion, as it planned. Religion may be, so sovietism says on conspicuous signs, "the opium of the people", but, if so, the people want their opium.

Some that have quit the worship of the old Orthodox Christian "ikons", images or saints and holy men, have substituted a new worship which he calls "communistic ikonolatry".

Lenin's mausoleum is worshipped as the tombs of the saints are worshipped, and his images are rapidly becoming "holy" images.

It is not surprising that a few years of sovietism should be unable to wipe out the old beliefs. Long years of universities, public schools and public newspapers have been unable to wipe out the old beliefs, in the "thirteen" superstition, and many well educated human beings would not walk under a ladder or sit thirteen at a table.

Stamford's mayor advises lashing husbands that beat their wives. Mere imitation is not the wisest kind of justice, although men have practiced it for ages. If a man stole something with his right hand they cut off that right hand. If he blasphemy, they cut out his tongue. If he put out another man's right eye, they put out his right eye, etc.

Modern wisdom should find a better way than mere imitation to punish a wife-beater. Why not put him to work until he earns enough money to buy his wife a nice little automobile? He could do that in two years.

Then let him sit at the window and see her drive by, and warn him that if he repeats the offense he will have to earn a new car for her.

Better plans could be found, but nothing could be more dull than merely imitating the wife-beater by beating him, as we imitate the murderer by killing him.

Last Saturday Sir Manuel Hoare, British air minister, and his wife, finished their flight from London to Delhi, India. The trip of 6,300 miles was made in 63 flying hours, an average of 100 miles an hour. Lady Hoare said it was a comfortable trip and she could use her powder puff very nicely in flight.

Men that manage Britain's flying force actually fly. That seems very strange in this more conservative country, quite without adequate air defense, its flying in the hands of men that know as much about practical flying as a turtle knows about ice skating.

We had one real flying officer, Mitchell, ranking with any flier in Europe. But his talk interfered with battleship contracts and it did not take long to get rid of him.

Arabs are picturesque, but when they come to Paris they bring smallpox with them, and Frenchmen get it. So France will vaccinate all her Arabs, whether they like it or not, which will mean a hard fight against Mohammedan superstition. For mysterious reasons providence allows religions, old and new, to oppose the progress of science.

Hindus rage when the British won't let them swim in the filthy "Holy" Ganges, with its thousands of floating corpses. Tell them such stupidity spreads plague and they tell you the Ganges is a holy river.

Tell certain Americans that their children should be vaccinated and they will give you some religious objection, or a worse pseudo-scientific one of their own manufacture.

When Lady Wortley Montagu had herself vaccinated, thereby saving her life, undoubtedly, her friends thought her crazy.

The Russian Empress, Catherine, enlightened, perhaps, by her correspondence with Voltaire, was vaccinated, and upon the little boy whose arm supplied the vaccine, she conferred the title "Duke of Smallpox" most seriously.

One thing is certain, the French are logical, scientific and do not turn back. They will vaccinate those Arabs, whether or no, and let them wonder why Allah and Mohammed do not appear to prevent it.

General Butler, who wore himself out fighting bootleggers and bootlegging police in Philadelphia, and was then kicked out, has changed his mind about prohibition.

He discovers that it is only the poor man that is deprived of liquor. And as for the better class, he says, "there is always a plentiful supply on hand for corruption in the upper crust".

General Butler should know that "equal justice" must not be taken too seriously.

And, after all, the humble are the great majority. What an admirable thing if they can be kept virtuous, while their more prosperous brother drinks his champagne and cocktails.

In Day's News

Playgoers throughout the world as well as a legion of personal friends both in and out of the theatrical profession will mourn sincerely the final exit from the stage of life of Miss Ellen Terry, the great English actress of a by-gone day, whose critical illness has attracted as much public attention among the English people as would that of their most eminent statesman. During the half century that Miss Terry was identified actively with the stage, she accompiished so much of an artistic and valuable nature in the depiction of character and the illustration of drama, and helped to sweeten and brighten the lives of so many who witnessed her professional performances and felt the stimulating influence of her gracious personality and illuminating art that no one of those who have profited from the exercise of her talent could regard her passing as other than a personal bereavement.

One o' th' most ancient git rich quick schemes is marryin' a well "t' do" widder. A good name is a mighty fine thing t' have, but I sometimes believe ther's more money in a good location.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

YESTERDAY'S GOOD IS TODAY'S EVIL

Advancement is not a giant stride; it is a flight of stairs. The way we make progress is not by jumps, but by steps; not by going from evil to lesser evil.

So the evil of today may be the discarded good of yesterday.

Slavery is an evil not countenanced in any civilized land today. Yet at one time it was good. It was a distinct moral advance over the old practice of murdering in cold blood all captives taken in warfare.

Prize fighting is looked upon as an evil now and almost all of the states have laws aimed to prevent it.

But a century ago prize fighting was a distinct advance over the brutality of the sports of former times. Even such a fight as one in 1825 when two men fought for 75 rounds with naked fists and the loser had to be put to bed with 50 leeches on him was a step up from the spectacles such as throwing ferocious dogs into a lions' cage and watching them tear each other to pieces which had delighted the people at a previous date.

Some of the superstitions which were connected with religion in the past are now evils and repel men of greater intelligence instead of frightening them into good conduct.

They are an evil now, but at one time for more primitive people whom they kept from doing wrong they were a good.

Duelling today is a crime. At one time it was a good because it was an advance over past customs. It gave both parties a fair chance instead of being a cowardly assassination. It substituted honor for ambuscade and so at the time was a step ahead.

Today we have laws against beating wives. Wife beaters are jailed and dealt with summarily. Yet a century ago in England wife beating was considered the right of a husband. A man might beat his wife within an inch of her life and go unpunished so long as she didn't die. But if she died he was treated as a murderer.

That condition of affairs is hard to understand today. But it was an advance over the past when, in ancient Turkey, the husband had the power of life and death over the inmates of his harem.

It is as true that the good of today may be the evil of tomorrow as it is that the evil of today was the good of the past.

The test of the times is not whether there are evils or not, but whether those evils are less or greater than the ones in the past; whether they are a step up or down.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

RAZOR BLADES.

Now who would ever think that there are more than eight milion razor blades used and destroyed in the world every 24 hours! Sounds very much like a pin story. It may be interesting to know where all the pins go, but few have thought about razor blades disappearing in like manner.

Darwins Limited of Sheffield England, are now distributing about nine million free samples of their razor blades in the United States, in the distribution of these blades they enclose in each envelope pictures of the Fitz-William Works operated by themselves at Sheffield, for the making of these razor blades. This plant occupies an area of six acres. In it the razor blades are made from the raw steel ingot to the finished article and in addition to all this, the special production machinery required, is built by Darwin's Limited. Darwin's Limited is the outgrowth of Darwin & Milner, Limited, which company was established in 1774 two years before the Declaration of Independence by the United States. Following the foundation of this company, Darwin's Limited now embraces the following:

Sybry, Searls & Company, Limited; Spartan Steel Company, Limited; Nelson Tool Company, Limited, Cobalt Magnet Steel Company Limited, Akrat Steel and Wire Mills Company, Limited, Beeleywood Steel Company, Limited, Sheffield Annealing Works, Limited, Hos-Syb Works, Limited, Burks and Stephens, & Son, Limited; besides the Fitz William Works, all operating at Sheffield, England. In addition Darwin & Milner Incorporated operate at Cleveland, Ohio, Darwin & Milner Limited at Brussels, and Nenenttichwerk, Lennep, Rhld.

When the great Steel, Iron & Mining Companies of Europe are being amalgamated into a great company for the purpose of absorbing all the Steel and Coal business there is in the world, there are still left a few English Limited Companies and American Corporations fully able to take care of themselves, of which Darwin's Limited is one.

Just Folks

A FOOL AND HIS AUTOMOBILE

I've owned a car for almost fifteen years,
But how to start and stop is all I know,
I understand just how to shift the gears
And what to do when going fast or slow,
But all that time a car that will not go
Is something I have never understood.
In times of trouble up my hands I throw!
I don't know what is underneath the hood.

I'm just the chap who feeds the gas and steers,
I call myself a motorist although
The service station hireling plainly sneers
At the colossal ignorance I show.
It seems that denser every year I grow.
I have a kit of tools, but what's the good,
The car I own I've never crawled below.
I don't know what is underneath the hood.

Strange sounds mean nothing to my foolish ears.
I know the noise of tires when they blow,
But I must wait until a man appears,
And then but little help can I bestow.
Full many a time along a busy row
Waiting for some mechanic I have stood.
Others can make their own repairs, but, oh,
I don't know what is underneath the hood.

Envoi.

I envy him, whose eyes with knowledge glow,
Like him I'd start the motor if I could
But when I'm stuck, for help I radio!
I don't know what is underneath the hood.

POEMS I LOVE — BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"Sally in Our Alley" by Henry Carey.

This English poet whose birth occurred somewhere about 1693 died in 1743 and left little of value save this well known song. He is essentially a "one-poem poet"—a distinction not to be smiled at. It is something, after all, to have given the world even a single lyric so perfect.

Of all the girls that are so smart
There's none like pretty Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley,
There is no lady in the land
Is half so sweet as Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

When she is by I leave my work,
I love her so sincerely;
My master comes like any Turk,
And bangs me most severely—
But let him bang his bellyful,
I'll bear it all for Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

Of all the days that's in the week
I dearly love but one day—
And that's the day that comes betwixt
A Saturday and Monday;
For then I'm drest all in my best
To walk abroad with Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

When Christmas comes about again,
O then I shall have money;
I'll hoard it up and box it all,
I'll give it to my honey;
I would it were ten thousand pound,
I'd give it all to Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

My master and the neighbors all
Make game of me and Sally;
And, but for her, I'd better be
A slave and row a galley;
But when my seven long years are out
O then I'll marrry Sally,—
O then we'll wed, and then we'll bed,
But not in our alley!

Addresses Pastors On Church Publicity

Barton E. Richards Of The News Gives Convincing Argument For Advertising

Barton E. Richards of the News gave a very interesting talk at the weekly meeting Monday of the New Castle Ministerial Association in the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Richards spoke on "Church Publicity" discussing the subject from a newspaper man's point of view. He stressed the fact that the church was the most important factor for good in the world today and it was essential that it receive much publicity from the press.

His argument was very convincing and the majority of the ministers present were in perfect sympathy with Mr. Richards' point of view. Exception was taken by a few who believed that a minister should advertise from the pulpit.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Richards and also to the New Castle News for the generous amount of space and the hearty cooperation given the churches of the city.

A resolution was passed authorizing Robert Strickler, Jr., to submit to the Association an advertising program of a general nature.

Plan Inquest Into Slaying Of Davenport

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 11—Official inquest into the assination of Harry Davenport, 50, constable of Wilmerding Borough, and Chief of Westinghouse Airbrake Company police there, will be held Jan. 14, the Coroner's office announced here today.

Ten witnesses have been summoned to appear before the Coroner's jury at Wilmerding.

Can't Eat Pork or Pie, Drinks Six Gallons

Mr. Mervine Eats Anything He likes Now

"For years I could not eat any fruit or pork or pastry. Took about a carload of pills and six gallons of tonic without getting any better. I have taken two bottles of Adlerika and can eat anything I like."—H. C. Mervine.

Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter which you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been causing all your trouble. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation. GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache. ONE spoonful Adlerika always brings relief.

Doctors Praise Adlerika

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara, and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. It is excellent for Intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, says: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. C. Curl: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose."

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels. Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In New Castle at Love and Megown's.

Ben Nadel To Take Stand In His Own Behalf

Alleged "Angel Of Pat" Will Mount Stand In His Own Defense

McDERMOTT KEEPS UP HIS INSOLENCE

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 11.—Ben Nadel, who is on trial here for the alleged harboring of Patrick McDermott, while the latter was being sought as one of the slayers of Don R. Mellett, probably will know his fate by night.

The dapper ex-convict, former cellmate at Atlanta prison of Ben Rudner, yet to be tried in the Mellett case is scheduled to meet McDermott in court today when the latter is placed on the witness stand.

Nadel's counsel is said to be relying on McDermott's testimony to acquit the alleged "angel" of Pat.

McDermott was brought into court heavily shackled three times yesterday to be identified by witnesses. He maintained the same attitude of swaggering insolence that has marked his conduct since his arrest and conviction on the murder charge.

Dan Pfaff, former associate of Nadel in bootlegging activities, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Slagle, at whose home McDermott is supposed to have hidden from police, were the chief witnesses against Nadel yesterday.

Pfaff told of how he had been made an agent of Nadel in aiding Pat to evade detection.

The Slagles testified that Pat had been in their apartment for several weeks.

Nadel is to take the stand in his own defense today.

Many To Enter Guilty Pleas In Liquor Violations

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11—Defendants in minor prohibition cases in the United States district court here, numbering approximately 350 will enter pleas of guilty within two weeks, by agreement between Assistant U. S. District Attorney Ralph H. Smith and attorneys for the defendants, it was learned today.

Faced with a docket of more than 2,000 liquor cases, government prosecutors conferred with defendants' counsel, and came to understandings in many cases which will lead to direct pleas of guilty. Smith pointed out that no compromises were promised the defendants and that only those charged with minor offenses were approached. Most of the cases involved are those of first offenders.

Fire Damages Six Buildings In Newburgh, N. Y.

Scores Driven Into Streets; Several Firemen Are Overcome

(International News Service)

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Fire, which threatened Newburgh's business district, swept through a row of six buildings here today, and had not come under control at 10 a .m., several hours after the blaze had started. The buildings housed stores and families.

Scores of persons were driven to the streets, several firemen were overcome.

Apparatus was summoned from all nearby points, and from as far away as Poughkeepsie, 18 miles north.

After gutting the six buildings, the fire leaped to another row a block above. The fire was aided in gaining headway by a strong wind and by the fact that the city of Newburgh is built upon a hill.

The blaze was visible for miles around.

Marvelous Machines Installed At Bank

First National Bank Of Lawrence County Installs Latest Bank Posting Machines

The First National Bank of Lawrence County now has in actual operation in its savings department two of the latest and most wonderful devices known in banking circles. They are known as the bank posting machines.

Each of the two machines cost as much as one of the finest automobiles made. There are only 252 of the larger savings bank institutions of the country, including such banks as the Mellon bank of Pittsburgh, that have so far installed these marvelous machines.

These machines in the same operation print the amount of the deposit or withdrawal on the customer's bank book and the bank ledger card. The machines also immediately show any mistakes by a printed tape on the front of the machine.

At the end of the day, it is only necessary to shift a lever and press the motor bar and the total of all checks or withdrawals and deposits is obtained and can be balanced against a total of the customer's ledger sheets, being a positive proof of the accuracy of the day's work.

The machine is so rapid that after the new pass books of the First National Bank of Lawrence County are in the hands of the public, three customers a minutes can be served by one teller and one machine. This is the experience of the Mellon bank of Pittsburgh and similar large saving institutions.

The machine is not only proof against mistakes, but also provides a medium through which it will make impossible any scheme to defraud the bank, such as depositing a check on some out of town bank and trying to collect the amount it represents before it could be collected from the bank on which it is issued.

Supplementing the machines is a new card filing system, by which the teller can see the customer's signature card at the same time that the ledger card is taken out. The signature is seen the moment that the ledger card is removed and reduces the possibility of forgery to a minimum, as the signature of the withdrawal is readily compared with the customer's original signature.

The First National Bank of Lawrence County is now issuing the new pass books and securing new signatures of all customers.

The Greatest War Comedy Ever Made At Regent Tomorrow

The war is over—but three of the funniest rookies that ever joined the American Army will live it all over again for four hilarious days at the Regent Theatre, beginning Tomorrow.

You'll laugh until you cry at the appearance and adventures of the most ill-assorted trio that has ever flashed across the screen—Conrad, Nagel, George Cooper and Bert Roach in the greatest of war comedies, "Tin Hats".

Reaching the front just in time for the Armistice, they become separated from their company and set out to join the Army of Occupation. Accused of theft, wanted for desertion, scared senseless by a haunted German castle, fearing the wrath of a hard-boiled, blasphemous top-sergeant, fed up with Rhine wine and sauerkraut, tired of posing as high-ranking officers, falling in love with German maidens, fighting and laughing their way through every kind of an escapade—this new great comedy team have made the greatest war comedy in "Tin Hats".

It's real rollicking comedy and is the kind everyone wants to see.

Tonight the Regent is showing for the last times "Hell Bent For Heaven" with Patsy Ruth Miller.

Unidentified Man Commits Suicide

Tries To Give Away Worldly Possessions Of $8.72 Before Shooting Self

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 11.—Driven to contemplation of suicide, an unidentified man sought to give away his meagre possessions before he shot himself to death at Groveton, Pa., morgue attendants here revealed today.

The man offered railroad employes the contents of his purse, amounting to $8.72, but meeting with rebuffs, scrawled a hasty note cursing those who might attempt to identify him, climbed into a freight car and shot himself to death, authorities said.

Tailor's tags in the man's overcoat indicated he had bought it in Steubenville, O.

Snow Removal Map Is Issued

State Highway Department Shows Routes To Be Kept Free Of Snow

State Highway Department of Pennsylvania have just issued their last snow removal and detour map until April, showing the detours that will hold all winter and the roads on which the snow will be removed and kept free for traffic.

The Pennsylvania Department of Highways wishes to assure us that all the main highways (hard surfaced) under the care of the state will be kept open all winter by the prompt removal of snow. In any case where there is any delay notice will be given through the newspapers.

These roads are given in green on the detour map and of the local roads include the roads leading from New Castle to Butler, Ellwood City, Wampum and Beaver Falls and Pittsburgh, Slippery Rock, Grove City, Franklin and Oil City, Sharon, Greenville, Meadville and Erie, as well as the road to Youngstown, also the roads from Sharon to Mercer and Grove City to Greenville.

No detours are marked on the main roads in this part of the state except one between Oil City and Reno and the local office of the State Highway Department assures us that this is entirely open and will be all winter but is marked on the map because the work is not entirely completed.

The map is on display at The News.

A Mile From Washington Street It's True, But a Mile From High Prices Too!

La Follette And Nye Remain Pair of "Terrible Children"

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—At 32 and 35 respectively, Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin and Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota seem destined to remain the United States Senate's prize pair of "enfants terrible" until the next national election at any rate.

Sam G. Bratton of New Mexico is only 39, which is young enough to qualify him as a baby senator, but he isn't of the terrible type. He stays quite peacefully in the Democratic nursery.

Millard E. Tydings of Maryland will be even more immature, for a senator, than Bratton. He's 37. Tydings, however, will be nothing but a senator-elect until the next Congress meets. He's in the lower House now, and 37 isn't quite so juvenile for a representative. He isn't terrible, either, but a well behaved party child, like Bratton.

La Follette and Nye aren't the only terrible characters in the Senate, but they're the two terrible kids.

Senator Norris, as terrible as they make 'em, is past 65. Senator Brookhart, who will be back next term, spreading terror on all sides, is nearly 60. Senator Borah, who is terrible by spells, is 62.

These are "terribles", but not infant ones.

In the course of nature a terror in his 60's passes away in a few years and is terrible no more. A terror in his 30's, with more than a generation ahead of him, to raise plueperfect heck in the Senate chamber, is a fearsome subject for a political "regular" to contemplate.

Nye, if anything, promises to be a tougher handful for conservative senators to get along with than "young Bob".

The latter has all his late father's advanced ideas, but not his father's uncompromising ruthlessness of manner in expressing them.

The elder La Follette looked as fierce as an enraged lion in debate. He tossed his mane and puckered his face and showed his eye teeth. He tramped up and down and shook his finger under other senators' noses. The way he said things took the skin off, as well as what he said.

"Young Bob" has plenty of ability and nerve, but he lacks his sire's fiery delivery. He can voice the very same opinions that "old Bob" did without making the welkin ring in the same old way. If he is, in reality, no milder, at least he appears to be.

Nye is hard.

He's a baby senator, remember. From the eyes of an infant an innocent trustfulness is supposed to look out. Generally it does. But once disillusion a youngster and oh what a change! No embittered grown-up's expression can equal the steely bleakness in the gaze of a thoroughly suspicious, cynical child.

That's the look you see in the orbs of Gerald P. Nye.

It doesn't belie what's behind them.

Nye isn't excitable. He's cold, inflexible, merciless. He doesn't roast what he doesn't like. He freezes it solid in the flow of a liquid air of deliberately and unemotionally uttered but searing words.

An "enfant terrible" can do nothing worse than to tell exactly what he has on his mind.

Speaking of baby solons, the Senate's patriach is Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, aged 83.

FOR Sour Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips". Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug-store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Homestead Row Is Continued

Early Peace In Borough Fight Goes Glimmering As Woman Enters Case

MAY WITHDRAW STATE POLICE

(International News Service)

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Jan. 11.—Homestead's internal political strife, which has arrayed Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, against a group of borough councilmen, today was heightened by the introduction of a new figure in the embroglio—that of Mrs. John J. Cavanaugh, wife of the burgess, who, would-be peacemakers said, stood staunchily behind her embattled husband and refused to allow him to make terms with his political foes.

The political factions are arrayed against each other as the result of a series of vice-crusades sponsored by Cavanaugh and his "personal guard" which included state police. Cavanaugh created a stir when he announced that he contemplated the arrest of several councilmen. He was warned that such action would be the signal for a general expose, with Edward Klein, president of the council, leading the burgess' opposition.

After an uneventful day, however, it appeared that state police who were patrolling the borough would be withdrawn, and a truce signed by the principals. Those who attempted to intercede, however, said that Mrs. Cavanaugh, entering into the negotiations, arrayed herself solidly behind her husband, and sent hopes of an early peace glimmering.

Carlisle Street Coasting Too Good; Sleds Go Too Fast

Coasting Of Last Night Accompanied With Element Of Danger To Many Coasters

Coasting on Carlisle street was "to good" last night. It was so good that there was unusual danger connected with the coasting efforts. Sleds came down the grade at terrific speed, and as Carlisle street comes to a sudden end at the ravine on Park avenue there was difficulty in stopping the speeding sleds. The street was covered with ashes for a distance, but even this didn't prevent some of the fastest coasters going over the edge of the ravine.

Carlisle street is good for coasting when the coasting is not "too good," but with conditions as they were last night, the danger is increased.

Claims His Property Damaged By Grading

Before Judge Hildebrand the cases of Elenturio Lattavo against the Virginia Fire and Marine Insurance company and others, which was taken up yesterday, is still on trial.

Strange Twist Of Politics For Sen. Brookhart

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—By a strange twist of politics, Senator-Elect Smith W. Brookhart, Iowa Insurgent, will go "on trial" today before the senate interstate commerce committee on charges of lobbying for a nominee of President Coolidge to whom, in reality, he is bitterly opposed.

The committee will conduct a hearing on the charges of Senator Steck, D., of Iowa, that Brookhart is a "paid lobbyist" for Cyrus E. Wood, named by the president to the interstate commerce commission. In reality, Brookhart is opposed to the confirmation of Woods.

'I am opposed to Woods and have never favored him for the appointment," said Brookhart today, "I have taken no interest in the fight for or against his confirmation because I am not now a member of the senate. I have felt however that Mr. Woods was a whole lot like Mr. Woodlock, whom I opposed for the same commission last year. In casual conversations with senators, when my views were asked, I have said a number of times that I was opposed to Mr. Woods."

Steck based his charges on telegrams, received apparently from former campaign managers of Brookhart, urging him to vote for the confirmation of Woods. Brookhart denied instigating the telegrams and professed as much surprise over them as Steck did anger.

Directors To Meet Thursday At Noon

Further upbuilding of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce will be the chief item of business before the board of directors at their regular meeting to be held as a luncheon meeting at the Elk's Club at 12:15 p. m. Thursday, January 13.

At the beginning of another year it is very necessary that much attention be given to this subject so the meeting will be devoted entirely to this vitally important subject.

Second Coming Of Christ Discussed By Rev. Mel. Morris

Stated He Was Much Opposed To Those Who Foolishly Set Dates For The Lord's Return

"No one who really believes the Bible can doubt the fact that Jesus Christ is coming to this earth again," declared Evangelist Mel Morris last night at the First Baptist church. "Never before in the history of the world have the predicted signs of Christ's coming, as they are given in the Bible, been so perfectly fulfilled," said Mr. Morris.

He expressed himself as being utterly opposed to those who foolishly set dates for the Lord's return, showing that such a practice was opposed by the Scriptures, and has done much to bring this blessed doctrine into disrepute. In a truly remarkable manner the speaker marshalled the numerous passages of Scripture which bear upon the subject, and gave a mental panorama of the entire scope of prophetic truth. The large audience which listened for over an hour to the preacher, witnessed their interest by an unusual attention.

In rapid succession Mr. Morris dealt with the various phases of Christ's return and gave a general view of the attendent and subsequent events. With clear discernment he lifted the cloud of confusion and misunderstanding which perplexes many as they approach this doctrine He proved by a wealth of Scripture the fact of Christ's return, and then turned to the signs of His coming. This was followed by the events connected with the second advent of Christ. The resurrection of the dead in Christ, the translation of living believers, the judgment of believers to determine their rewards for service, the marriage supper of the Lamb, the return of the Jews to Palestine, the period of the Great Tribulation, the reign and overthrow of the Anto-Christ, the revelation of Jesus Christ with His church when He appears on earth to reign upon the throne of David, the judgment of the living nations, the millennial kingdom of Christ, the final rebellion of Satan at the end of the millennium and his final consignment with his followers to the Lake of Fire, the judgment of the Great White Throne when the wicked dead are raised and judged to determine the degrees of their punishment, the end of time and the beginning of eternity when the new heavens and the new earth come into view; were all forcefully brought to the attention of the audience. The evangelist closed by giving an earnest appeal to the unsaved to accept Jesus Christ as their Savior, before He comes as Judge.

Mrs. Stanley Reese sang a very touching solo. A special choral number was rendered by the choir, during the song service which begins each meeting.

Tonight Mr. Morris will preach on: "THE NEW BIRTH," and tomorrow night on, "NOAH AND THE ARK." At the Wednesday night service, a prize will be given to the family having the largest number of members present, to include parents and children. Week night services begin at 7:45.

Parlor services will be held Wednesday at 2 o'clock in the following homes: Ellic C. Reno, 942 Maryland avenue, led by Mr. Landis; Mrs. W. H. Gardner, 403 E. Wallace avenue, led by Mr. Morris.

A Time-Honored Remedy for Coughs and Croup

Away back in Grandma's day, Dr. Galvin's Croup Tincture had proved what a quick, safe and reliable remedy it was for croup. Later grown-ups began to take it for coughs and colds, and it promptly became a favorite with them, too. Now it is in demand everywhere for croup, coughs, and colds. Doctors recommend it.

In ever so many homes Dr. Galvin's Tincture is kept on hand all the time. If a case of croup comes suddenly at night, the favorite remedy is there for the little victim's relief and help; when coughs and colds come with their discomfort and danger, the remedy is ready for immediate use.

Says "Allenrhu" Most Helpful Rheumatic Medicine in the World

Hundreds of Bottles Being Sold Declares McKee's Kut Rate Store, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., Who Guarantees it and is Dispensing it to Many Sufferers Here.

It does not matter whether you are disabled with cursed rheumatism or have only occasional twinges, Allenrhu will ease the agony, do away with the gnawing pains and often reduce the swollen joints.

Allenrhu is no laggard; it starts right in at once searching out the poisonous deposits and in two days starts to drive the concentrated impurities that often cause rheumatism, out of the body through the natural channels.

"The blessed relief this marvelous preparation quickly gives has made for it thousands of friends," says McKee's Kut Rate Store, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., who have been appointed agents in your city.

Evening clothes and full dress wear, ladies' as well as gentlemen's, is skillfully, carefully and promptly dry cleaned and pressed at our establishment.

The season calling for these garments is here. Remember to let us serve you.

Ewing Park Scouts Have Fine Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Jan. 11.—The regular weekly meeting of the Ewing Park troop of Boy scouts took place last night in the Fire Station building, with Charles Rabberman in charge.

Eighteen scouts were present, and the Point System, which began last Monday was more fully explained. Results of the patrols, so far, were posted. The Test System, was again explained and will go into effect next Monday, when the scouts will receive instructions in thrift for the First and Second class tests. A speaker is being arranged for to instruct the scout at this time. At last night's meeting it was announced that all dues must be paid this month to prepare for requirements next month. Also all scouts are required to bring in any trip equipment they have at home, to the meeting next week.

Several members of the new Troop committe were present, F. E. Shimmel, E. J. Rineheimer and E. R. Wimer, and C. R. Knally, former scout master.

Following the business meeting, the scouts enjoyed a talk by F. E. Poister.

Loan Company Elects Directors

Election of the board of directors for the coming year of the Community Savings and Loan Company which was held yesterday afternoon in their offices in the Long-Morehead building on North Mill street, resulted in the election of only one new director, D. A. Palmer to take the place of Arthur E. Lindsley.

The meeting which was to have been held yesterday morning was postponed until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The chief item of business of the meeting was the election of the board of directors. The following were elected: Oliver P. Brown, John Elder, Jr., H. M. Kirk, George S. Long, James K. Love, Jos. S. Rice, D. A. Palmer, J. Howard Frew, R. K. Aiken, George F. Winter, P. J. Flaherty, T. H. Hartman, H. G. Coates, D. S. Pyle, and J. W. Pattison.

The Community Savings and Loan company was organized in 1920.

The report of the treasurer as given at the meeting yesterday shows a large volumn of this kind of business for the past year.

Use Steam Heat To Aid Building Work At "The Castleton"

Construction of "The Castleton," new hotel is being pushed forward in spite of the adverse winter weather we have been having. In order that the cold weather may not hinder the progress of the concrete work steam is run through all the material to keep it at the right temperature, thus the work can be pushed forward in spite of the coldest weather.

Recently the contractors have reorganized their force and the work is now being done under the superintendency of M. J. Kintz. Under the new organization the work is moving forward with more rapidity, and everything is being done so as to be able to hand over the hotel to the hotel operators as soon as possible. It is thought now that the building may be completed in August unless some unforeseen conditions delay it further.

Building with a summer temperature is somewhat different proposition from building during zero weather. So to overcome this difficulty the contractors are using a system whereby the materials are all heated to a temperature equal to summer temperature before it is placed in the mixer. Then after the concrete is poured into the forms the forms are also kept to a heat equal to that of summer until the concrete has well set in the forms and the concrete can be uncovered without fear of injury by freezing etc.

The heat is kept in and the work protected by large tarpaulins which are hung around the forms. Between the forms and these canvas protections are the coils of steam pipe which keep the heat at an even temperature.

In this six story hotel building the framework is made completely of reinforced concrete, the columns, beams and all. And the construction will be quite well over before the laying of the outer work of brick and the inner finish is started.

Selecting Cast For Comedy Of Foreign Veterans

First rehearsals of the mammoth cast which is to take part in the presentation of the musical comedy play "Bimbo," under the auspices of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were held in the city council chambers last evening under the direction of Miss Leone Artley, directress.

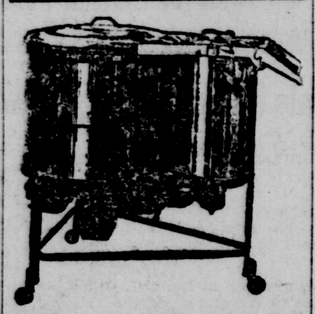

From all indications, "Bimbo" will be a show that is spectacular and hilariously comic, with a great variety of song and dance numbers that are catchy and full of pep.

Both Miss Artley and the committee are very enthusiastic over the talent that has been secured to take the leading roles and already are predicting that "Bimbo" is going to be one of the flashiest productions that has ever been offered in New Castle.

Some of those who will take leading roles are: Mrs. James Rugh, Mrs. Tom Monroe, Charles Walther, and Joseph Stritmater.

Question Legality Of Recent Raids On Lodge Rooms

Case Against Twenty-Two Eagles Lodge Officers Continued

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 11.—With legal procedure against officials of twenty-two lodges of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in a score of nearby communities halted until January 24 on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, indications today were that a technicality would prove a strong barrier to effective prosecution of the cases against lodge officers involved.

At a preliminary hearing of a Pittsburgh lodge and the Monongahela group, Attorneys A. Kirk Wrenshall, of Washington, Pa., representing the Monongahela lodge, and E. C. Coll, of Verona, representing ten other lodges, interposed an objection to the proceedings on the ground that warrants used in the 22 holiday raids were faulty, and that papers and documents in the lodge rooms were seized illegally.

Balked in their efforts to continue the cases against the lodges, Government counsel consented to a continuation of the case for two weeks, to allow time to prepare themselves.

Coll, together with J. Howard Devlin, also represents the Monessen, Ambridge, Sharpsburg, Wilkinsburg, Braddock, East Pittsburgh, Charleroi, Carrick, Pitcairn and one of the Pittsburgh lodges.

BOWLING NECESSARY JUDGE RULES, WHEN DENYING INJUNCTION

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 11.—An injunction to restrain the operation of a bowling alley on the ground that it was a nuisance was refused today by Judge William M. Parker. He held that "thinking people" regard bowling alleys when properly conducted as a "necessity" to furnish a means of exercise for persons engaged is sedentary occupations.

The injunction was sought by Ed. S. Goss, proprietor of a hotel, against Lawrence D. Gent and Florence Murray, who operate a bowling alley on the first floor of the same building. Goss complained that the noise interfered with his hotel business on the second and third floors of the building.

Allegheny County Grand Jury Resumes Hearing On Fraud

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 11.—Behind closed doors the special grand jury summoned at the instance of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner to investigate charges of fraud in Allegheny county in the recent general election today continued its hearings of scores of residents of Homestead with indications that the inquiry, nearing its end in the borough, would be turned to other parts of the county.

More than 100 Homestead residents faced the grand jury in yesterday's hearings.

Gardner refused to divulge plans as to the next scene of activities. Among those who faced the grand jury yesterday were a number of borough officials and prominent residents.

WIFE FINDS BODY OF SLAIN HUSBAND, MURDER IS MYSTERY

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 11.—Shot to death, the body of Nick Pelligreno, well known fruit merchant, was found in the kitchen of his home, 132 North Seventh street last night by his wife, after returning from a visit.

Coroner A. L. Bell said Pelligreno had been dead about 48 hours, evidently shortly after his wife's departure. Authorities are without a clue.

Police said they found evidence that Pelligreno's body had been discovered shortly after the killing, and had not been reported, the finder perhaps fearing reprisal.

Pelligreno was married three months ago. The wife, who was married once before, is being held by detectives for questioning. Mrs. Pelligreno told the detectives she had not been well for some time, and her husband persuaded her to take a trip to her sister's home in Indiana, Pa. She said she left Steubenville at 1:30 o'clock last Saturday and went there. Sunday she went to the home of friends in Pittsburgh, where she spent the night.

Beaver G. A. R. Post Gives Up Charter

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 11.—For many years the Beaver post of the Grand Army of the Republic was one of the most active organizations of its kind in the state, but death has thinned out the ranks until it was found recently that it was impossible for the old veterans to officer their post. A few weeks ago it was decided by the remaining active members of the post ot surrender their charter to the national organization. This was done and now for the first time since 1885 there is no G. A. R. post in Beaver.

WORKER DISCOVERS ENGINEER GROANING AT BOILERS, DYING

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 11.—Frank L. Wolfe, engineer at the Kearns Gorsuch Glass Bottle Company plant was hurt in an unexplained accident at the plant and died a half hour later, from the effects of two fractures of the skull.

He had been on duty but a few minutes when injured. A fellow worker heard his groans, and gave the alarm. Plant officials could learn nothing of the cause of the accident. Wolfe leaves a widow, five children, in Otsego, this county.

Election Tangle Puzzles Lawyers In State Capital

Doubt Whether Senate Would Accept Vare Certificate From Fisher

PINCHOT FIRM IN HIS STAND

Senate Will Be Called On To Decide Issue, Legal Minds Agree

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 11. — Constitutional lawyers in the state capital were besieged today for information on the latest election tangle produced by Gov. Gifford Pinchot's "irregular" certification of the election of W. S. Vare as a U. S. senator.

Practically all observers were on the opinion that Senator-Elect Vare would ask John S. Fisher for a new certificate of election when the latter becomes governor, but it was also the general belief that this will only further complicate matters.

Leading legal minds doubted that the U. S. senate would accept a second certification of the Vare note, inasmuch as Pinchot's certificate already has been entered on the record, especially when Fisher was elected as the same general election with Vare.

Most lawyers told interviewers the solution of the tangle would have to be devised in the senate, as there is no precedence to be guided by.

Governor Pinchot's motive in sending the qualified certificate to the senate, it was agreed on all sides, was to convert certain senators who might have voted to seat Vare on the principle of state's rights, to the ranks of those opposed to seating him.

With the governor of Pennsylvania questioning Vare's election publicly, it was pointed out, these senators might feel free to vote against seating Vare without fearing condemnation for what might be interpreted as opposing state's rights.

The governor had nothing further to add today to his comment on the Vare certificate.

Firemen Answer Two Fire Alarms

City firemen were called to the kitchen of the Leslie Hotel last night about 6:30 o'clock by an alarm from box 25. It was found that grease on one of the stoves had caught on fire and burned off the canopy over the stove, placed there to catch the fumes and grease. There was no loss.

A still alarm at 8:40 o'clock last night called the firemen to the former Masonic temple on North street, where a light was seen on the fifth floor. It was found on investigation by Assistant Chief H. Clare Stockman that plaster in the building was being dried out and the light seen was from the lantern of one of the workmen.

Ford Profits Are Revealed

Company Makes Staggering Sum, Suit Of Government Reveals

REPORT FORD MADE THREAT TO LEAVE

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Jan. 11.—Henry Ford threatened in 1919 to leave the Ford Motor company, start a new factory and build a new car to undersell his own product, Joseph E. Davies, former chairman of the federal trade commission, declared today in opening America's greatest tax appeal case in which the government seeks to collect $34,000,000 from Sen. James Couzens and other former stockholders of the Ford company.

Davies, one of the defense attorneys, in outlining his case, said Ford made this statement in Los Angeles. It was made at the time Ford was having trouble with the stockholders, shortly before they sold out to him, Davies declared.

Staggering Profits.

DETROIT, Jan. 11.—Staggering profits of the Ford Motor company were revealed today in the government's suit to collect $34,000,000 from Senator James Couzens of Michigan and other former stockholders of the company.

The government claims that the money is due in income and profits tax from the sale of the stock to Henry Ford.

One hundred dollars invested in the Ford company at the time of its organization in 1903 earned $52,174 in 10 years, Joseph E. Davies, former chairman of the federal trade commission, revealed when he opened America's greatest tax appeal case before three members of the United States board of tax appeals.

"In 10 years, with an initial investment of but $48,000 in actual cash, the Ford company had paid $23,000,000 in dividends and had amassed $22,000,000 in property," Davies declared. "In 1904, the company made $200,000. By 1907, those earnings had increased fivefold and were $1,011,000. Within two years these earnings had been doubled and were $2,600,000. Within three years these earnings were again multiplied five times and were $13,000,000 for the year.

In another year they were again doubled and amounted to $26,000,000.

Growth Remarkable.

"The growth of the company's surplus was no less remarkable. Starting with a surplus of $183,000 in 1904, in three years its surplus had reached $1,377,000. Three years later it had reached $3,366,000. Within two more years, or in 1912, the surplus was $14,745,000. On March 1, 1913, it had increased to $22,000,000."

The startling earnings were revealed by Davies in outlining the position taken by the former stockholders. Senator Couzens and his co-defendants dispute claims of the government that the $9,489 value per share set by the bureau of internal revenue as the value of the stock as of March 1, 1913, was too high. In fixing the amount of tax due, it was necessary to fix the 1913 value, as the difference between this figure and the price at which the stockholders sold their shares to Henry Ford, represents the amount on which the taxes were computed.

The figure set in 1913 was declared unfair by a subsequent regime in the bureau of internal revenue, almost five years later.

Should the government's contention be sustained, that a commissioner of internal revenue can set aside the acts of his predecessors and levy additional assessments, Mr. Davies declared, "there would be no security in either business or property rights of the citizens of this government."

The political feud between Senator Couzens and Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, also is expected to be touched upon. Couzens has charged that Mellon, smarting under criticism of his aluminum interests, caused the suit to be instituted.

Home-made, but Ends Coughs In a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough medicine. Easily made and saves about $2

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, if desired. This makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with an ease and promptness that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Special Services In Edenburg Church

Rev. L. C. Howe Is The Speaker At The Services Every Evening This Week

Special fellowship meetings are being conducted each evening this week in the Edenburg Christian church in charge of Rev. L. C. Howe. The services are attracting fair crowds despite much sickness in the community and unfavorable weather conditions.

There is special music by the choir each evening with Miss Eddie Coates at the piano.

The subject of the sermon Tuesday evening was "The Greatest Conversion in the New Testament." This evening Rev. Howe will preach on the theme "The Unity of All God's People"; Thursday evening, "The Best of All Books." Friday evening is to be fraternal night with a song fest featuring the service. Subject of sermon, "Am I Better Than Cain?" Members of any organization will be made welcome.

Special services will be held on next Sunday, both morning and evening. Rev. Howe will preach. There will be special music.

Sons Of Veterans To Install Officers

R. M. Campbell, Past Division Commander, Will Act As Installing Officer

New officers of Oscar L. Jackson Camp, No. 249, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will be installed at the regular meeting of the organization to be held in the Sons of Union Veterans hall in the City building.

R. M. Campbell, past division commander of Pennsylvania, will act as installing officer and following the installation and regular business session a smoker will be enjoyed by the members.

An effort is being made to get out the membership of the organization for this important event, as a number of matters of interest will be up for consideration at this time.

CURRENT EVENTS OF '23

A large number of members of the Current Events of '23 met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sude Weller, Lincoln avenue. "Our Bible" was the topic of the paper prepared and read by Mrs. D. T. McConaghy. Each member responded to roll call by telling of some woman of the Bible.

Mrs. Paul Weller sang several vocal solos which were greatly enjoyed.

The next meeting January 24 will be at the home of Mrs. Harry Marshall Sr., Crawford avenue.

Sale Of Seals In County Near $3,000

The Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society has completed their check-up on work for December, 1926.

According to Della G. Glenn, executive secretary of the society, January is one of their busiest months, as it is the time when they check up on the sale of Christmas Seals.

The cash receipts for the sale of these seals, up to January 1, not including the sale in Ellwood City is $2788.23.

The rest of the work done by the society as shown by Miss Glenn's report is as follows: 31 business calls were made; 3 sick calls; 1 investigations into milk Associated Charities; 35 pupils finished first six weeks of Modern Health Crusade work; 28 pupils started work on the Modern Health Crusade; half days were spent in the Wa Baby Clinics; 775 pints of milk given out; and 25 families are included in the benefitted list.

Britishers are carrying snuff boxes on their hips, according to dispatch. Not much room for snuff box in this country.

When Winter Comes

Good Elimination Is Essential.

HABITS of life change with the changing seasons. Winter brings us more indoors; we are apt to get less fresh air and exercise, to eat heavier food and to be less active generally. These winter-time habits impose heavier burdens upon our hard-working kidneys.

Sluggish kidneys function permits retention of poisonous waste in the blood and makes one an easier victim of winter's colds and chills. Presence of these unfiltered toxins makes itself felt in many unpleasant ways. One is apt to feel tired, achy and listless—to have drowsy headaches, dizziness and perhaps a dull, "toxic" backache. That the kidneys are not functioning as they should is often shown by scanty or burning secretions.

At such times the use of a stimulant diuretic* to the kidneys is indicated. Doan's Pills act on the kidneys only. Grateful users the county over recommend them. Ask your neighbor!

*Diuretics are agents which increase the secretion of the kidneys—Encyclopaedia definition.

Spalding One Of First Famous Violinists To Give Radio Program

New Castle people who are interested in Albert Spalding, the famous American violinist who plays here next week, will be glad to learn that Spalding was one of the first of the great artists to accede to the demand for the playing of greater artists on the radio.

Radio fans of several years experience will recall the dearth of good music and good artists which radio suffered and the annoying prevalence of cheap music and poor talent a few years ago. However the average fan probably did not know the reasons underlying this condition.

It was a condition which duplicated the experience thru which the phonograph and talking machine industry passed many years since, when the great musicians had a feeling that the making of records for public purchase would seriously affect in a detrimental way, the number of concert engagements which a record maker would enjoy.

It was soon found however that the affect was the reverse and that the most popular record makers were inevitably the most popular concert artists.

It was the same fear which caused a number of the great artists to induce the strained situation about two years ago when it was extremely rare to hear one of the more famous artists over the radio.

Albert Spalding was among the more reasonable artists who saw the situation from a different angle; who saw in radio the opportunity to bring the best in music to a far greater number of people than could be reached by the concert stage; who saw in radio the opportunity to thrill millions at the same time; who realized that the human soul suffers an eternal hunger for beauty and who had sufficient common sense to know that the true lover of good music would never deny himself the chance to hear an artist in person in his own city if that particular artist had thrilled him once, twice or a hundred times over the radio. These artists were fully conscious of the fact that a great many of American people want to say "I have heard so and so" or "I have seen Mr. Blank" and will pay a good price for the privilege, but they also felt that they were performing over the radio, not to satisfy curiosity, but to satisfy that eternal desire for beauty which exists in the soul of the real music lover as much as his daily desire for food and drink.

That fortune has favored these artists who rendered an unselfish solution to the problem that seemed for a time to threaten seriously the income from their artistry, is proven from the fact that today Albert Spalding, who has already appeared three times on the Atwater-Kent series, is more in demand for concert than ever before and Spalding is filling five and six concert engagements to one of a colleague, a violinist of foreign birth who has consistently refused to play over the radio for more selfish reasons.

New Castle's first opportunity to hear the renowned Spalding in person, comes Friday night of next week when he appears in the Senior high school auditorium, and indications now are that his playing over the radio has not lessened but favored the demand for tickets for his engagement here.

Employment Report For Pennsylvania

Seasonal Lethargy Is Reported From Many Part Of State

By WILLIAM B. BROWN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 11.—Seasonal lethargy, which usually marks industry at this season of the year, was reflected generally in most lines of industrial employment throughout the state during the last two weeks of 1927, the bimonthly report of the employment bureaus of the State Department of Labor and Industry today showed.

Common labor and semi-skilled workers, always the first class to feel the effects of a seasonal decline in employment, were reported as being unable to find jobs. And the number of unemployed is gradually increasing, it was revealed. The condition, however, was said to be normal for this time of the year and does not indicate any marked industrial slackening.

Much of the present unemployment is based upon the seasonal slackening in building and construction. A number of the largest construction projects in the state are virtually at a standstill because of winter weather.

Demand for both bituminous and anthracite coal was reported slightly below normal with a resultant surplus of mine workers. In the Scranton district a number of the mines have been furloughing men in such numbers that they are seeking employment in other lines. In the bituminous field where the demand for coal had been unusually heavy there has been a marked slackening.

The textile industry has shown the usual slackening following the holiday season. The same condition prevailed in metal products and allied lines.

During the latter part of December the railroads stopped employment of additional men, but the immediate future in railroading was said to be bright for workmen.

Early January inventories have been responsible for a demand for office workers in all of the large cities.

The customary normal decline in wholesale and retail lines of manufactured products was reported from the various labor offices.

DETECEIVE GETS BEQUEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11. — For 36 years Detective Sergeant Arthur Bernard Riehl exercised a friendly protection over the daughter of his friend, a former undersheriff. When the will of the daughter, Mrs. Emma Carrigan, was filed for probate, it was found to contain a bequest of $25,000 to her protector. Riehl intends to remain on the police force.

That Shapespear's knowledge of Latin and Greek and his familiarity with the habits of schoolboys go to prove that he was a country schoolmaster in early life, is the theory advanced by a noted Shakesperian authority.

Cuba To Celebrate Freedom At Suggestion Of American

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — The Cuban Republic will be 25 years old May 20.

United States troops were withdrawn from the island on that date, just a quarter of a century ago, and Cuba set up housekeeping on her own account.

It's to be a great Pan-American occasion—a silver anniversary.

The Cubans will invite in all their friends. It won't be a mere meeting. It will be a celebration. May 20 will be the pivot around which the whole thing will revolve, but by no means will it be the whole show. Cuba's idea is an entire season of festivities. Company will be asked to come early and stay late.

These things usually are arranged farther in advance, but this is in the nature of a surprise party.

It so happens that Congressman Sol Bloom of New York elected to spend the Christmas holidays in Havana. As a public man, he met President Machado there. He mentioned to the latter that the country impressed him favorably.

"Si, senor," agreed the president. "We've made great advances since the old days of Spanish rule."

"That's quite a while ago," observed Sol.

"Cuban independence will be 25 years old next May," indorsed the chief executive.

* * *

A silver anniversary! Sol's eye lit up. He's been an entertainment promoter all his life. He was the creator of the Chicago World's Fair "Midway Plaisance," nearly four decades ago. Anniversaries are his meat.

"How are you going to celebrate it?" he asked.

President Machado confessed he hadn't thought of a celebration.

Sol was shocked. An anniversary going to waste! What was more, a first class anniversary, like the 25th of the Cuban Republic's birth! —In which, by the way, he has a personal interest, for wasn't he the author of a once famous song?—"The Men Who Went Down With the Maine." He was, indeed.

"Caramba!" cried Sol. And right then the idea of the Cuban Republic's silver jubilee took shape.

President Machado was all in favor of it at once.

As soon as it was suggested to him, he could see in a minute what it would do for Cuba.

"And for the United States, too," added Sol.

"It will be a lesson to show the world what kind of a national character Uncle Sam is.

"When we took Cuba from Spain everybody said, 'Well, if that island ever did stand any chance of independence, it's done for now. It may as well make up its mind to be an American possession henceforward.'

"Yet here it is, about to celebrate the 25th anniversary of its establishment as an independent republic—an independence it never had to fight a lick for, but got as a free gift from the United States. "Who says we're grabbers? It doesn't look like it to me—or would we have let the Pearl of the Antilles go?"

A rather black cloud hangs just now over the relationship between this country and some of the Latin American states.

Congressman Bloom is a chronic seeker for the silver lining inside every black cloud. In the case of Cuba he believes he's found the silver lining inside this Latin American one.

True, there are some strings on Cuba's independence, but Sol says they don't seem to irk her.

GETS SERVICE RECORD

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif., Jan. 11. —A new service mark in railroading has been set by Roger Trewick of Pacific Grove, who is retiring after 57 years and three months of continuous employment by the same road. Trewick is 70 years years old and has hauled millions of passengers without a single accident.

According to a story once widely believed, March 4 was chosen as the date for the inauguration of the President of the United States because Benjamin Franklin found that this date fell on Sunday fewer times than any other during the next two centuries.

NEW GERMAN TEA THAT HALTS WORST COUGH IN FEW HOURS
Cough syrups are dangerous. Many of them contain dope. The dope paralyzes the membrane and prevents cough. This is not a remedy.
Weber's Pectoral Tea contains no dope; it is simply a combination of helpful herbs. A teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes a delightful soothing tea.
In a few minutes it loosens the phlegm in the chest, stops those piercing pains and helps you breathe normally, overnight. It will absolutely end your cough in a few hours, in many cases.
Don't dope yourself with dangerous cough remedies when Weber's Pectoral Tea will relieve you safely.

my doctor prescribed this wonderful Tonic

Thousands of women are glad to be able to tell this to their friends and the reason is easy to understand. Doctors prescribe Gude's Pepto-Mangan because it is quick, because it is thoroughly efficient and because it is uniformly successful. Also, unlike the many unscientific preparations, it contains a special combination of iron and manganese in an ideal form which is pleasant to take and which will not disturb the most delicate stomach. It is one tonic that has had the endorsement of the medical profession for over 34 years.

What Doctors Say:
"I often have occasion to prescribe Gude's Pepto-Mangan, and have used it with a liberal hand, and am convinced of the good results."
"I prescribe Gude's Pepto-Mangan and think it an excellent tonic."
"I have given Gude's Pepto-Mangan a thorough trial, and it is unexcelled in simple anaemia."

Your own doctor will tell you all this and more, if you ask him. You can get Gude's Pepto-Mangan at your druggist's in both liquid and tablet form.

Ferryboats To Change Color

Plan To Paint Ferryboats On Coast In Striped Colors

NEW PYGMIE RACE LOCATED

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—Commuters between San Francisco and Oakland and Berkeley will soon be riding in striped ferryboats, painted in lurid zig-zagging waves of repellent colors.

The new design will replace the white and yellow tones of the present ferryboats. These colors, it has been found, blend too readily with the famed fog of San Francisco bay and make the ferries indistinguishable.

Striped ferries, however, will be conspicuous, if nothing else, and will loom through the fog in a manner quite their own.

Not only the painting on the outside of the ferries will be changed, but beautiful friezes will decorate the walls of the cabins so that the hustling commuter, impatient at delay, may be lulled into peaceful relaxation through study of mural paintings on the walls and ceilings of the cabins. The new ferries will be put into service about February 1.

News of the discovery of a new race of pygmies in Dutch New Guinea was contained in letters and cablegrams received by friends and relatives in Berkeley of Prof. Matthew Stirling, formerly a member of the faculty of the University of California.

The race, according to Stirling, was found in the mountains of New Guinea. "They wore no clothing, but were much given to the use of black and red paint," Stirling wrote. "Their culture is superior to that of many tribes which have been in contact with civilization for many years."

Stirling expects to reach New York City about the first of April.

There is an armless artist in Alameda, near here. Eleven years ago William Jones lost his arms when he grasped a live wire to break his fall from a scaffold. Although at that time he was working as a house painter, Jones, in secret, studied to fit himself as a painter of fine canvases.

Not deterred by the loss of his arms, Jones continued his artistic studies with artificial limbs. He specializes in landscapes. Recently he has exhibited several of his canvases. His master, G. Piazzoni, declares Jones has remarkable talent and predicts eventual recognition for his persevering pupil.

"Bums" and "transients", both of the acute and chronic varieties, have an opportunity in Oakland to earn a meal without losing self-respect. The municipal wood yard furnished soup, beans, stew, bread and coffee last year to 10,000 volunteer woodchoppers.

Monuments and mementoes of the past abound in San Francisco. On Market street there is a the Lotta Crabtree fountain, donated to the city by the early vaudeville favorite. A monument to Robert Louis Stevenson recalls the famous writer's stay in San Francisco years ago before he sailed to the dreamy South Sea islands where he died.

Francis Scott Key, who wrote "The Star Spangled Banner," looks down upon the frolicking seals and sea-lions in Golden Gate Park.

VOLANT

Lois May Miller, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Miller, who was seriously burned about two weeks ago, has been removed to her home and is doing as well as can be expected. Lois May was badly burned when her clothing caught on fire from a small gas stove. She was immediately removed to Mercer hospital, where for some time it was thought that it would be impossible to save her life. But recently she took a turn for the better.

Mrs. Davenport and daughter, Grace, of New Castle, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davenport on Sunday.

Little Clara Stewe is confined to her home with a cold.

Mrs. C. B. Aggas, Mrs. S. P. Grim and grandson, Merle, and Miss Nanie Potter were New Castle shoppers on Monday.

Charles Mershimer and John Gibson of Princeton were business callers here Monday.

Prayer meeting will be held in the Methodist church on Thursday evening at 7:30.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnston, who have been ill at their home with severe colds, are both improving.

Among the New Castle shoppers Saturday were: Mabel Simpson, Mrs. W. J. Allen and son, John; C. L. Hunt and F. P. Simpson.

Those who attended the Young People's Council at New Wilmington from here Monday night were Alwilda Yeager, Wendell, Allen, Mabel Simpson, Margaret Allen, Kenneth Brenneman, Arthur Brenneman.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hillard and daughter, Helen, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Moorhead of Zelienople.

Miss Grace Kerr has returned to her school at Hickory Heights.

Miss Leona Rudolph, who is ill at her home in Leesburg with scarlet fever, is reported improved.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lusk and family were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Lusk at dinner on Saturday evening.

Leslie McCracken, who is employed in New Castle, spent Sunday at his home.

Mrs. Maud McCracken is receiving the congratulations of her friends on receiving the appointment for postmistress here, being recommended by Congressman Hon. T. W. Phillips. Mrs. McCracken has been serving as postmistress since July, when John McGraham resigned and moved to Cleveland, O.

P. S. Gilson is confined to his home with illness.

Hundred Medals For Boy Scouts In Pennsylvania

Plan To Be Continued By Department Of Forests For Present Year

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 11.—The department of forests announced today that 100 medals will be awarded to Pennsylvania Boy Scouts for meritorious service in forest protection during 1926. The plan has the approval of the national Boy Scout headquarters and is a big factor in stimulating interest in forest protection among the Boy Scouts of the state. This plan has been in operation during the last two years and will again be a feature of the Boy Scout work during 1927.

Ten regional committees to consider applications and recommend awards have been appointed. The state has been divided into ten districts, in each of which ten meritorious service medals will be awarded. No scout who has accepted pay for forest protection service will be recommended for the award. Each committee considering the award consists of a scout executive and a representative of the department of forests and waters.

A meritorious service may be shown in the prevention of forest fires, in detecting and reporting foreign fire, and in educating the public to the dangers of forest fire. Among the activities which make the scouts eligible for these awards are, removing conditions which constitute a forest fire hazard and reporting the existence of forest fires and enlisting persons over 16 years of age in extinguishing them. Other activities that make scouts eligible are, securing the cooperation and support of clubs, organizations and schools in the prevention and suppression of forest fires, and the posting of roads, streams and woods with literature calling for greater care with matches, camp fires, cigars and cigarets. Forestry officials are of the opinion that the educational campaign conducted by the scout organization during the last few years has been a big factor in improving the forest fire situation in Pennsylvania.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 437 N Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Fills Son's Pulpit On 77th Birthday

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 11.—Rev. Edward Blews of New Castle, celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday anniversary Sunday by filling the pulpit of his son, Rev. Dr. R. R. Blews, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, here. Although he has retired from the active ministry, Rev. Blews is still hale and hearty physically and mentally. His subject was: "Man's Part in the Plan of Salvation." Rev. Blews, for half a century, has been a member of the Oil City Conference of the Free Methodist Church and has held pastorates in the leading churches of the denomination in Western Pennsylvania. About 30 years ago he was pastor of the Sharon church.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

New Castle Pa., Jan. 8, 1927.
Editor New Castle News:

Dear Sir—If you can kindly find space in the columns of an edition of the News please insert the enclosed, taken from the Brookville American, and oblige.

EUGENE ROBB,
206 N. Libersty, St.,
New Castle Pa.

The doe killers of the past special period brought down a frightful lot of the innocent and trusting animals in response to a demand from certain quarters as a protection for the farmer's crops.

Sportsmen generally have decried the idea. The Isaac Walton League and kindred organizations have gone on record as opposing such a slaughter of wild life in this state.

The epithet "Lady Killers" is slung at the fellows who have thoughtlessly engaged in the hunting of the female deer and such a wave of indignation has swept over the state that other methods are almost certain to be used for protection if this is in fact required.

Mellon Meets State Leaders In Conference

Report Governor-Elect Fisher Has Decided On Three Cabinet Posts

MANY CHAIRMEN TO BE RETAINED

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—With the convening here today of Republican party leaders from various sections of the state to confer with W. L. Mellon, state chairman, and assembly heads of the new legislature on the patronage of the 1927 session, it was reported that Governor-elect John S. Fisher has virtually decided on at least three of his cabinet positions but he will withhold formal announcement of the appointments until a conference here the latter part this week.

Judge Thomas Baldridge of Blair county will be the new attorney general, according to the reports; Nathan R. Buller of Wayne county will be commissioner of fisheries, and Peter G. Cameron of Tioga county banking commissioner, will be reappointed, it was said. Intimate friends of the governor-elect also declare that a resident of Allegheny county has been decided upon as the new head of the highways department.

Many of the old chairmen will be retained in the new legislature it was reported as the conferees went into session today in an effort to select the various committees of the next legislative session.

Plan Padlocking Of Two Concerns For Year Period

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 11. — Armed with orders signed by Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal court here, Federal officers today were to "padlock" the Altoona Beverage and Ice Company Plant, Altoona, and the saloon of Julia McDonough, of North Braddock. The places were ordered closed for one year for violations of the prohibition law.

Ten cases were considered by Judge Gibson, two places being ordered closed, three cases dismissed, three continued and two ordered to post bonds to observe the law.

—Fi-Fi of the Toy Shop will be at the Scottish Rite Cathedral Friday and Saturday of this week.

Libellant Is Dead And Suit Is Abated, Opinions By Court

In the divorce case of Charles W. Hammond against Melinda Hammond, Judge Hildebrand handed down an opinion this morning in which a rule granted on defendant's motion to declare suit abated is made absolute and the suit abated, the libellant having died during the litigation.

In the case of the Curry Lumber company against Carlo Matteo, owner or reputed owner, and George Glass, contractor, a motion of Matteo for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is granted. The case was one in which there was a dispute as to whether certain lumber furnished was for new or old construction. Suit was brought on a mechanics lien. The jury awarded plaintiff $147.84 against Matteo and $759.87 against Glass. The opinion strikes off that portion of the verdict relating to Matteo.

In the case of the Commercial Insurance and Trust company against Stella Tomozowski, demurrer is overruled and defendant is directed to file supplemental affidavit of defense within fifteen days.

Negro Escapes From Improvised Jail

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 11.—Sometime during the night W. V. Schrawder, a negro, escaped from the third floor of the Mercer court house by means of a rope made of blankets and sheets tied to a third story window.

The rope that he used extended as far as the second story from where he must have been assisted by someone from the outside to escape to the ground. Nothing has been learned of him since his disappearance although all authorities were notified at once when his escape was discovered this morning.

Schrawder, a negro from Farrell, was accussed of using wrong license plates on his machine and pleaded guilty to the charge on January 3. On account the overcrowded condition of the county jail he was being locked in temporary quarters on the third floor of the court house from which he made his escape.

May Take Over Pike As State Highway Soon

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 11.—A meeting in the interests of taking over the pike from here to Slippery Rock as a state highway and its subsequent improvement will take place here the evening of January 14 at the Hotel Humes. The road supervisors of Springfield and Liberty townships, those of Butler township in Butler county, Mercer county commissioners, and assemblymen of Mercer county, if they can be secured, will be the guests.

The address of the evening will be delivered by Dr. J. Linwood Isenberg, principal of Slippery Rock State Normal.

A number of the business men of that town belonging to the Boosters Club will also be present, covers to be laid for 50.

Meetings with this project in view have been held of late date in Slippery Rock, and exceptional enthusiasm is aroused over the route.

The local meeting is arranged by Harry Thorpe, former North Liberty townhip business man. Once the highway is taken over by the state, it is pointed out, improvements can be made.

Youth Dies From Injuries Received In Fall Under Train

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 11. — Edward Darby, 17, of Wilkinsburg, died at a local hospital today from a fractured skull and internal injuries suffered when he fell beneath a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train at the Wilkinsburg station.

Darby attempted to board a moving train when he slipped and fell beneath the wheels, it was reported.

Nurses Home Is Being Erected

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 11.—Ready for occupancy by spring is the hope of Dr. D. F. Vogan, who is building adjoining his Mercer Cottage hospital a nurses' home that will house 14 girls that constitute the staff.

Steam heat is drying out the plaster in the building preparatory to the finishing work. The home will contain living quarters, class rooms and offices. The present living quarters in the hospital when vacated by the nurses will increase the number of beds there to 60.

Ordinance To Cut Off Garbage Fee

Merchants Will Not Be Charged For Having Refuse Burned

Wholesalers and retailers who haul garbage or refuse to the incineratoring plant will not be compelled to pay 25 cents a hundred pounds for its destruction by fire, according to an ordinance introduced today by D. O. Davies before council.

A charge of 25 cents a hundred pounds has been made in the past, he said.

"If they are good enough to haul the refuse to the plant the city should not charge for burning the garbage" he announced.

The ordinance was introduced and sent to committee and will be passed, it is indicated.

The bill gives the superintendent of safety the option of making a schedule of rates for burning certain kind of garbage but Davies said: "It is not my intention to make the schedule."

Start Resurfacing Of Mercer Road

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 11.—The resurfacing of the Sharon-Mercer road from Hermitage to the foot of the Wallace hill has been approved by the county commissioners of Mercer county. The work will be done by the maintenance department of the state highway organization.

The road will be widened from 16 to 18 feet for this distance, six miles. The improvement covers the townships of Jefferson and East Lackawannock township. It is stated that it is but a preface to the completion of the remaining distance of five miles into Mercer which can be expected in 1928.

Annual Meeting At Reformed Church

Trustees And Auditor Named—About One Hundred At Dinner Preceeding Meeting

Annual congregational meeting of the Reformed Presbyterian church was an event of Monday evening and was featured by a dinner and the election of a number of officers for the coming year.

W. M. McClelland served as chairman and Miss Olive Houk was secretary. H. B. Williams, C. E. Tindall and John S. Riley, Sr., were elected trustees for a term of three years. Harry R. Wilson was named auditor.

Reports from the heads of the various organizations of the church were given which showed that the church was in a prosperous and growing condition.

Preceding the business session, dinner was served in the church dining room with covers arranged for about one hundred. Mrs. Merle Allen was general chairman. Special guests were thirteen new members who have recently been received into the fellowship of the church. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen, Clyde Snyder, Mrs. Luella Brown Atwell, Frank and Mary Bowes, Bruce Troutman, Carl Cummins, Kirk Pattison, Dorothy Daugherty, Meldon McConnell, Margaret Williams and Chalmers Kennedy.

The pastor, Dr. E. A. Crooks addressed the new members and welcomed them to the church in behalf of the session. Mrs. J. M. Blackwood gave the address of welcome from the Bible School from which the entire thirteen had come into the church.

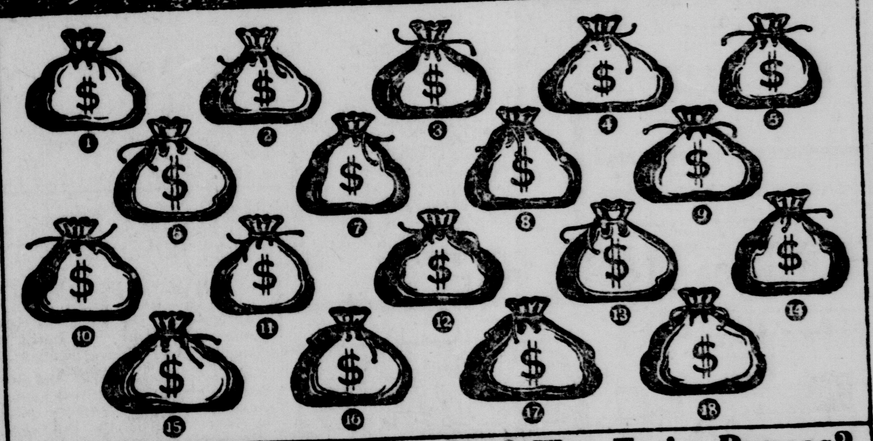

A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presenting of a handsome gold watch and chain to Dr. Crooks by the congregation as an appreciation of the splendid work that he is accomplishing each year. The presentation speech was made by Clyde Tindall. Dr. Crooks responded in a very fitting manner.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

Peter is a very extraordinary little boy who has the power of speech with the wild animals and fairy folk because he once saved the life of the Old Oak Tree. Peter once decided he would have liked to have lived in the Land of Long Ago and presto he was transported to that far away land. Then he visited the Land of the Shadows where the famous Cat and Fiddle and the Dish and the Spoon nursery rhyme fame dwell. And, strangest of all, Peter actually saw the cow make her famous jump over the moon! As Peter watched her go higher and higher he suddenly found himself in the Garden of the Moon. Now, children, go on with the story and you will learn what he found there.

EACH STEP BROUGHT HIM NEARER TO THE LITTLE LAME GIRL

THE FIGURE IN WHITE

Peter pinched himself to see if he were dreaming.

How had he gotten where he was and where was he, anyhow?

The last he could remember he'd been out in a moonlit meadow and he had a confused recollection of strange goings on with a lot of queer companions—who they were he couldn't for the life of him think—and now here he was sitting on the bank of a silvery stream that flowed through a valley of flowers.

Above him was the strangest sky! Not a speck of blue anywhere; only a mass of clouds that for a brief moment seemed to part and reveal a kindly face, hiding it again so quickly that he could not be altogether sure.

It couldn't be moonlight, for there wasn't any moon; but it couldn't be sunlight, either for there was no sun. Everything seemed to be bathed in a yellow mist, that, like the moving massing clouds, was unlike anything Peter had ever seen before.

Every once in so often Peter felt as if a cold wind was blowing upon him, although there wasn't a breeze. Peter wet his finger and held it above his head to find out. But, just the same, something sent the shivers up and down his back.

Behind Peter jagged rocks towered to the sky. And it was what Peter saw upon these rocks that made him at last jump to his feet with a startled cry.

High upon a ledge halfway up the mountain was a little figure all in white making its way slipping, sliding, almost falling but never turning back, up and up toward the clouds. The little figure dragged something up the rocks after it, something that seemed to be in its way. And now, as Peter watched, the figure pulled itself up on a ledge and raised its arms and tossed down to the rocks below that which had been hindering its ascent. And the thing dropping down turned over in the air and Peter saw that it was a crutch. Then the little figure on the ledge waved both arms about its head and gave a joyous shout.

But Peter's cry was not of joy. It was of fear.

"Hold on, little girl; don't you fall; And don't you be afraid, for I'm coming up to get you!"

And up the rocks Peter began to scramble—up and up and up, each step bringing him nearer to the little lame girl who clung to the ledge and now no longer had any crutch to aid her.

DINNER STORIES

"Doctor, do you think the anesthetic will make me sick?"

"No, madam," replied the surgeon, "I think not."

But still she was not satisfied.

"But," she continued. "How long will it be before I know anything?"

"Madam," replied the other gravely, as he signaled to his assistant that he was ready, "don't you think that is asking a great deal of the anesthetic?"

Mrs. Knowall took a great interest in the doings of all the neighbors. It was a great day for her when a new arrival came to the house on the opposite side of the street, and she watched with interest as the furniture was removed from the van and carried into the house.

"Well, said her husband, when he returned from business in the evening, "have you found out anything about the social standing of the new folks across the street?"

"Not yet," was the reply. "They have no car."

"No?"

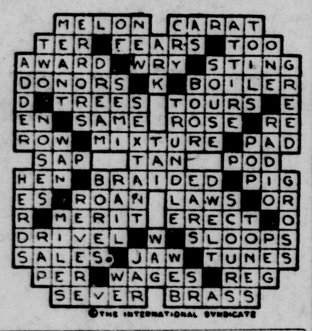

"Yes, and they have no Pomeranian dog, no radio and not even a grand piano. I can't imagine what they have got."

"Humph!" remarked friend husband sardonically. "Perhaps they have a bank account."

Look before you leap. You may leap in front of a heavier car.

TIN MILL PASSERS DEFEAT MERCHANTS 34 TO 17

Are Undefeated In League Play

P. R. R. Team Stages Fine Battle; Nose Out Electrics, 26-25

FAST GAMES FEATURE CARD

The Tin Mill quintet retained their leadership in the City Industrial Floor League on Monday night, by downing the East Side Merchants 34 to 17, in a fast battle. In the opening game of the evening the P. R. R. team nosed out the P. & O. Electrics 26 to 25, in a thrilling encounter.

The first game of the evening between the Pennsy tossers and Electrics was nip and tuck the entire way. Both teams flashed a fine offensive backed up with an equally effective defense and for the greater part of the time the leadership was in doubt.

The P. R. R. team by virture of a foul led at half time by a score of 14 to 13. The second half of the game was just as interesting as the first two periods had been, with the P. R. R. boys outscoring their opponents via the field goal route. The Electrics staged a rally late in the fourth quarter but it fell short one point. The final count was 26-25. The game was one of the most exciting and closely fought of the league to date.

Tin Mill Victorious

Arnold "Fiz" Fraser and his Tin Mill aggregation of basketball passers remained undefeated and ran their total straight victories to five by downing the East Side Merchants 34 to 17 in the nightcap affair last night. The Merchants presented their usual strong lineup and fought the Tin Mill team in all quarters of the game but the more experienced team came through with a score that doubled the efforts of the Merchants.

For all the second game was lopsided, it proved highly interesting to the vast number of spectators that gathered for the battle that was for first place in the circuit. The Tin Mill team led at half time by a score of 14 to 7. It was through the efforts of Fraser and Sumner that the Tin Mill boys secured their points, with Melder supplying one field goal and a couple of fouls. "Mid' Kerr was the only Merchant player able to tally in the first half of the game.

In the third and fourth quarters the Tin Mill team cashed up with an assault on the hoops that gave them eight field goals, and it was just a case of keeping the Merchants from scoring. The close guarding of Sumner and Volesko allowed the Merchants but four field goals the entire game.

The lineup and summaries:

WILLIAM L. Fahey, attorney for Rogers Hornsby, today demanded of Frank L. Moore, betting commissioner of Cincinnati, that Moore furnish an itemized account of an alleged $92,000 indebtedness which Moore says Hornsby owes him. Moore and his attorney conferred with Hornsby and Fahey, then commenced compilation of the report.

MOORE claims he had advanced money to Hornsby at various times to pay his debts and to make bets on horse races. He exhibited cancelled checks made payable to Hornsby and Mrs. Hornsby for amounts ranging from $4,400 to $18,000. Hornsby admits, a report says, having had transactions with Moore, but declares he repaid sums borrowed. He says he had received tips on horses through Moore, but had won and lost, but declares he never made a bet through Moore.

WHILE Judge Landis is preparing to make a decision in the inquiry concerning more than two score players who recently were placed on the stand to deny allegations of Swede Risberg and Chick Gandil, Buck Weaver, banned member of the White Sox since the 1919 season, made an application for reinstatement. Weaver was one of those who testified at the recent hearing and said he had no knowledge of a plot between Detroit and the Sox in 1917.

MAYOR Kendrick of Philadelphia is not satisfied with having secured one championship fight for his city, but is trailing another. He sent a telegram to Tex Rickard late yesterday inviting Rickard to stage the next fight in which Gene Tunney appears in Philadelphia. As a bait he pointed out the success of the tilt in which Dempsey lost. Dempsey will arrive in New York today to discuss his future ring work.

Promoter Claims Champ Has Given The "Run-Around"

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Humbert J. Fugazy, New York promoter, today gave his version of the negotiations which culminated in Rickard's flying trip to St. Louis to bind the heavyweight champion to an agreement to a 1927 title bout.

Fugazy accused Tunney of "running out" on an agreement to come to terms with the promoter here.

"Tunney, not I, took the initiative in negotiations for a title bout," said Fugazy. "He told me he was dissatisfied with the treatment accorded him by Rickard after the Dempsey fight.

"We had two preliminary conferences and were to iron out final details right after Christmas. But it now develops that Tunney had a secret conference with Rickard here only a few hours before my appointment with him. Apparently he came to terms with Rickard then and later gave me the 'run around'."

Mahoning High Wins Over North Street High 8-7

Mahoning Junior High School defeated North Street Junior High in a hard fought game of basket ball, Monday, the Mahoning five gaining a lead of 8 to 7 in the last two minutes of play when Bender the center for Coach Cresswell's team scored a field goal.

Cresswell has a small squad and even smaller players, but providing they show the same brand of ball throughout the season as in their first game last night, they can bid high for league honors this year.

This game was the first in the Junior High School league, and was played on the Ben Franklin floor.

Sweener played the best game for the winners while Schultz was the star for the North Street squad.

The lineup and summary:

Mahoning 8.		North Street 7.
Rischel	f	Valle
McIlnenny	f	Ward
Bender	c	Schultz
Sweener	g	Mannos
Hilliard	g	Hoose

Subs—Russo.

Field Goals—Schultz, Bender, Sweener, Russo, 1.

Fouls—Mahoning completed 2; North Street 5.

Referee—Smith

Time Keeper—Franklin.

SORDS POINTS OUT

Walter May Beallright Under Howley's Care

By NORMAN E. BROWN

A baseball manager, to be a good manager, must have a bit of Indian in his make-up.

And never forget.

His memory must be as long as the list of players he has seen in action during his career.

Dan Howley, new manager of the St. Louis Browns, "remembered" when he went atrading this winter to build up his team for the coming squabble.

The Yankees were gunning for pitching and fielding strength. They wanted a young hurler. They wanted an outfielder, possibly to take Bob Meusel's place. At least, to be available for utility purposes. Howley offered them what they wanted in the shape of Joe Giard, young flinger, and Cedric Durst, outfielder and first baseman of parts. The Yankees had let Giard go to the Browns years ago, with Milton Gaston and Joe Bush, for Urban Shocker. At that time Huggins was willing to part with anything but his real estate holdings in St. Petersburg and other parts of Florida for Shocker, whom he believed could hurl the Yankees to a pennant. Shocker, incidentally, won but 12 games and lost the same number. Meanwhile Giard, under the tutoring of George Sisler and Jimmy Austin, showed considerable promise and what is more to the point, won 10 games while losing but five.

Last year Shocker delivered for Huggins, winning 19 games and losing but 11. Giard, meanwhile, won but three and lost 10 games. This was due, in a measure, to his work as relief pitcher. Huggins felt as though the young man had a future. He was glad to get him with Durst, when the two bosses talked horses.

Howley looked over the Yankee roster and spotted Walter Beall's name, but said nothing.

But it so happens that Beall was pitching for Rochester in the International League in 1924, while Howley was managing the Toronto team. Howley remembered not only that Beall hung up a nice string of wins that year but that he showed general ability that spoke well. Howley watched him closely and subconsciously perhaps noted what shortcomings the lad had.

Later Hug mentioned Beall's name and Howley permitted himself to be talked into taking Beall.

Huggins had great hopes for the young man when he joined the Yankees permanently two years ago. But the young man wasn't ready to deliver. Got credit for winning one lone game.

Last year, with his old-timers wobbling at times, Huggins gave Beall his chance. The young man was shoved into a total of 20 games, but the best he could do was to win two games and lose four. Not much there on which to hold one's hopes.

Howley has had remarkable success in developing young hurlers during his managerial career in the minors. Owen Carroll, Doyle and a couple of other lads with Toronto last year bespeak his ability. The probabilities are that he feels he can turn Beall into a good pitcher. At least he remembers the latter's weaknesses—the few he had—while with Rochester and figures that if these are still with Beall they alone are responsible for his failure to come through.

Just what success Howley has may furnish another interesting item along about August 1.

By fanning 77 times in 144 times, Bernie Friberg of the Phillies won the unenviable title of strikeout king of the National League in 1926.

Sport World Awaits Judge Landis' Ruling On Risberg Exposure

By GENE HOFFMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—What is Commissioner K. M. Landis, the Nemesis of baseball's "ne'er do wells," going to say tomorrow to a breathless sports world, waiting for his verdict on the Risberg scandal charges?

No one but the Judge knows—and he's not telling.

In fact, he is hidden away. Those who would seek to sound the secrets of the Commissioner's mind by studying his features, or by associating with him, have no chance to use their talents. The Judge, great dramatist that he is, has sought rendezvous in the "wings."

"Commissioner Landis is taking things easy for a brief period," explained his secretary, Leslie O'Connor today.

Meanwhile the suspense is doing no harm to baseball's greatest drama. It may be a bit hard on some of our best minds in baseball, but for the world at large, it is only setting the stage for a gripping, smashing climax.

The Commissioner is scheduled to go on at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. At that time he has promised to render his verdict on the charges brought by Charles "Swede" Risberg, and backed by Chick Gandil, two of the well known "Black Sox," that a score of baseball's famous stars, including Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk, Donie Bush, et al., conspired to throw a series of games between Detroit and Chicago, back in 1917.

Locally, the concensus of opinion among baseball players, experts and fans, is that the verdict will be "not guilty."

Although golf has been played in Mexico for nearly 30 years, it was only recently that a general organization was formed under the name of the Mexico Golf Association to govern the sport in the southern republic. The new association embraces the leading golf clubs

FOUR-WAY TRADE SENDS GRIMES TO GOTHAM GIANTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Burleigh Grimes, one of the few surviving moist ball artists, and George Harper, outfielder, will play with the Giants next season.

They become members of the John McGraw clan in a four-cornered deal involving the Giants, Robins, Phillies and the Buffalo club of the International League.

Eleven players will be involved in the deal when it is completed. McGraw said in making the announcement at the Giants' office yesterday.

Buffalo was brought into the transaction because the Phillies demanded Alex Ferguson, who formerly pitched for the Yankees.

Phils Lose Four Men

The Phils insisted on Alex and McGraw negotiated with Bill Clymer, Bisons' pilot, to have Ferguson turned over to the Slowtown aggregation. The Bisons are handsomely rewarded with players for their bit.

In the first part of the trade the Giants turn over to the Phillies Jack Scott, pitcher, and Infielder Lafayette Thompson, along with Ferguson.

For these players the Quakerville crew surrenders (Dutch) Henline, catcher, and Harper. The Giants retain Harper, but pass Henline on in the deal with the Robins.

Henline goes to the Brooklyn club and Burleigh Grimes is given by the Robins to the Giants. The Robins give and receive only one player, although they also promise material to Buffalo next spring.

The Phillies not only give up Henline and Harper, but they will hand over to the Buffalo team (Lefty) Pearce and Infielder Huber. These two will be released outright to the Bisons.

Liberty Five To Battle Regals

The Liberty Five will battle the Regals on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the Lincoln-Garfield gym. The game will be a feature among the junior teams of the city.

The Regals have defeated the Liberty Five for two years straight and the Liberty passers hope to get back a little revenge. The Regals is the only team to defeat the Liberty Five since their organization.

Coach "Bub" Jones has his team in fine condition for the game and the boys hope to make it four straight for the season. The Liberty team has been strenghtened by the addition of Herman Stienbrink former Penn Five forward.

The following players are to report for the game Wednesday night; Roher, Stienbrink, Parker, Captain Rogovin, Jenkins, Reiber, Lewis, and Manager Tony Tino.

Trojans To Play Athletics Tonight

Trojans will play the Athletics, Tuesday evening at the Rose Avenue school basketball court. The Athletics hold membership in the Boys' League, Y. M. C. A. The Trojans hold one victory over the Athletics. The whistle will blow at 7:30 p. m., and a big crowd of fans is expected to see the game.

Many Believe McGraw Pulled Wrong Cord In Signing Of Hornsby

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'al News Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—If you gave me a second guess on the thing, I'd say that John McGraw was smart like a dumbwaiter when he signed Rodgers Hornsby on a two-year basis to the alleged amount of $80,000 serious dollars and thereupon invited the young man to be his guest this winter at Miami and Havana. The proposal is tantamount to waving a mop at a scrubwoman.

Hornsby's trouble, any, is that he will bet you the Statue of Liberty is really a wooden Indian, provided you make the odds right. As I understand the matter, he smiply bet his way out of St. Louis.

Horses, Horses, Horses

Of course, a contributing cause was sam Breadon's distaste for conversing in round numbers with any of his employees but they say that, if Hornsby hadn't been so crazy over horses, horses, horses last season, Breadon would have been more inclined to take the hasp off the strong box. He never has done so, but then there must have been a time when Ederle couldn't swim.

Anyhow, the story is that Breadon was looking about for another manager even while the Cardinals were riding home from their World series victory, this unique decision having been reached simultaneously with the conclusion that Hornsby was a success in managing other men but a failure in managing himself. The spirit of the gamester was in him and he bet just as naturally as he breathed.

Therefore, McGraw's invitation to see the world with him through a halter at the winter tracks does not seem to be the height of sound judgment. He hardly can ask Hornsby to do what he doesn't do himself and yet the time may be not too far distant when McGraw will be forced to make that request for the benefit of Hornsby's ball playing.

The more I thing of this situation being carried through two years, the less I think of New York's end of the recent deal. It may be, as alleged, that St. Louis got all the worst of it but all of the returns aren't in yet.

Texas Open Golf Tourney Attracts Galaxy Of Stars

By T. J. O'CONNELL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 11.— The sixth anual Texas Open Golf Tournament, which opens at the Willow Springs course here January 27, and continues for three days, is attracting a galaxy of the greatest stars of the golfing world, according to officials in charge of the tournament.

Among the greats who will be seen in action here are Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Abe Espinosa, Gene Sarazen, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, of Chicago, the colorful tree-climbing ,William, Tom Kerrigan, Willie McFarland, Jim Barnes, Walter Hagen, Al Watrous, Joe Turnesa, MacDonald Smith, Leo Diegel, Harry Cooper and Mike Brady.

Besides these, there will be a host of amateurs from Chicago, St. Louis, New York and other northern and eastern cities to participate in the pro-amateur event.

Heretofore, the tournament has been financed by public subscription. This year, however, there will be a new departure for the Chamber of Commerce of San Antonio has taken it over and is financing the meet.

Another new departure will be the charging of a gallery fee to help defray the expense of putting the course, which is a private one, in shape for the tournament. The fee was also intended to act as a sort of test as to whether the tournament can be made self-sustaining.

The Willow Springs course, which was recommended to the Chamber of Commerce by a foursome composed of Ernest L. Brown, D. D. Marley, Lieut. Colonel Charles J. Nelson and Frank M. Lewis, is regarded by local golfers as an ideal location for the tournament. Further improvements are being made daily and experts agree that some high-class golf will be necessary to get into the money class.

Most of the stars who will be seen in action here during the Texas Open, were expected to participate in the El Paso matches January 22 and 23. It will be convenient, inasmuch as most of the leading golfers are now playing in California.

Westminster To Meet Thiel

Conference Game Saturday Night Will Open League Season For Team

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 11.—The ability of the Westminster basketball team may be poor, medium or good, as far as one has been able to learn after watching the Blue and White passers in four practice games. Greenville Scholastics, Buhl Club of Sharon, Adrian College and the Alumni have been defeated handily, but still there has been no display of talent that has been sufficient to withstand critical analysis.

There is a possibility that some basis for drawing conclusions will be laid within the next seven days.

The Tri-State Conference season opens Saturday night, when Thiel comes to New Wilmington. Two nights later Coach John Lawther will take his lads to Beaver Falls, where Geneva will be played.

Westminster's prospects in both tilts are not overly bright. Last year Thiel came here vastly underestimated, with the result that the Blue and White was handed a neat pasting. Lawther must drive his men hard if they are to take the count of the Lutherans. Thiel looked bad in the contest against Geneva recently, but then, Geneva has probably the cream of the Conference. Lawther watched Thiel play Geneva and he fears both outfits. Geneva will be especially hard on their own floor.

What Lawther's moves will be this week in handling his players are a matter of conjecture. He surprised the fans against the Alumni by using Ayres at guard, sending Conners to a forward. Ayres just recently returned to school after being absent for two weeks, due to illness of a relative. He is a husky chap and it may be that Lawther will continue to use him as a runningmate of Lewis. Crowell is being used at forward, while Gamble is still playing center and promises to continue in such a role. It is the opinion of many that Lawther will continue to use the quintet he started against the grad team.

Insurance statistics show that the rejection rate on woman is lower than for men. This is not strange when one considers the kind of lives many wives have a suspicion their husbands lead.

Those in charge of arrangements for the 1927 Bermuda ocean race predict that the event will attract a record-breaking fleet of yachts.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Miss Glenna Collett, former national woman golf champion, has declared her intention of remaining out of active golf competition until summer. She will engage in only one tournament in the spring months, that at Nassau, for which she had filed her entry before making her decision.

She states frankly that her reason for dropping out of winter and spring tournaments is her belief that she hurt her game in 1926 by playing 12 months of golf previous to that time.

After winning the national title in 1925 Miss Collett continued in active competition through the late fall, then accepted invitations to enter southern meets during the winter and played through these.

Her defeat in Florida at the hands of Miss Virginia Van Wie was the first indication that Miss Collett was "off" in her game. She realized it as quickly as anyone, but believed that she had lost her stride only temporarily and did not realize at the time that she had become a bit "stale" as a result of her continuous efforts.

Her failure to hit her stride consistently after that brought her to the realization that her game had fallen below the 1925 standard and would remain that way unless some drastic step was taken to improve it. The step has been taken.

It may be that Miss Collett will bring other golfers to consider the same danger.

The rapid growth in popularity of golf in the past few years has changed it from a seasonable game to a year-around sport. The eagerness of clubs and civic organizations to draw the leading lights of the game to their cities has presented temptations to these stars to persue the game the year around.

Apparently the men who devote their entire time to golf are able to keep up their game at all times. But how about the feminine devotees? Miss Collett is of the opinion that she hurt rather than improved her game with this continuous play. The probabilities are that other members of the fair sex will consider the matter.

How uncomplicated life was back in the days when subscribers wrote heated letters to the press about boys riding bicycles on sidewalks!

The good old days were the ones in which molasses came in a barrel and a case of mayonnaise lasted the ordinary grocer three years.

Lion-Hearted Lionel — By Feg Murray

Four years ago Lionel Conacher was a young man in Toronto who ran a modest cleaning and pressing "emporium" and, on the side, did well enough in amateur sports to win the undisputed title of "Canada's greatest all-around athlete." If you should gaze on the ice of Madison Square Garden, New York, Tex Rickard's sports emporium tonight you will easily see that Lionel Conacher is still in the cleaning and pressing business, only now as a professional ice-hockey player. As right defense man of the New York "Americans", Conacher cleans out the opposition and presses on to victory; or, if you prefer, cleans up his opponents and then presses their noses in the ice.

In the first game between the two New York teams, played on December 26, the mighty Lionel spent nearly ten minutes in the hoosegow" for various infractions of the rules, one of them being a five-minute sentence for engaging in a fist fight with a rival player. The referee evidently didn't want players doing any late Christmas socking. Seriously speaking Conacher's playing has been sensational since he was traded to New York for Charley Langlois by the Pittsburgh Pirates last month. Rumors reaching this writer before that deal, that the big Canuck was stalling because he wanted to be traded, preferably to New York, seem to be confirmed, because Conacher is now playing a wonderful game, whereas his work in a Pittsburgh uniform last November was mediocre or worse.

But to get back to the other accomplishments of the "Big Train", as he has been dubbed because of his size and speed. As an amateur in Toronto, he was a whiz at both baseball and lacrosse, often starring in a game of each during one afternoon. In rugby football, he was without a peer, leading the Arognaut team to numerous victories and to two Dominion championships. He had time, besides his hockey, baseball and football—and cleaning and pressing business—to become an expert wrestler and boxer, and in the latter sport he was good enough to win the Canadian amateur heavyweight title and box an exhibition bout with Jack Dempsey. Before he turned pro, Conacher captained the Pittsburgh amateur hockey team, "The Yellow Jackets", which won the national championship.

Feg Murray Says—

It seems that the judges in the Catalina channel swim will have to use glass-bottomed boats if most of the starters keep on till they reach the land.

Kennedy Leads American Loop In Runs Scored

Ray Kennedy, eagle eyed Washington guard, has practically cinched individual scoring leadership of the American league, as far as the first half of the championship race is concerned. With five games in the first half yet to play, Kennedy has a lead of seven points over his nearest rival, Nat Hickey of Cleveland. Kennedy has forty-seven goals and seventy-eight free throws for 172 points, while Hickey has 48-69—165, with four games in which to boost his total.

Chick Passon of Philadelphia, who has been leading since the start of the season, has dropped to fourth place. Rusty Saunders of Washington went ahead of him by collecting thirteen points against Cleveland Saturday and seventeen in the Baltimore game Sunday, twenty of these thirty points being on free throws.

Honey Russell of Cleveland is fifth in the list and Carl Husta seventh.

Vare Refuses To Discuss Action Issued By Pinchot

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—"I am sorry, but I do not intend to discuss Pinchot's action."

This was the only reply elicited today from Senator-elect William S. Vare to the action of the governor in changing the wording in Vare's certificate of election to the United States senate.

"I can only say," added the senator-elect, "that he has always been very unfriendly to me. That unfriendliness has persisted ever since the voters of Pennsylvania rejected his candidacy for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention."

Cleveland Council Votes Confidence To Tris Speaker

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 11.—The city council has given a vote of confidence in Tris Speaker despite the objections of six members.

"Of all the absurd things ever discussed by us, this is it," declared Councilman Peter Witt. "I don't know anything outside of patent medicine that contains as much fraud as baseball; it has become so bad that the club owners had to employ a judicial mountebank named Landis."

"Madam, you will have to get somebody to introduce you before I can cash this check for you."

"Sir," she answered haughtily, "I am here on business and not making a social call. I do not care to know you!"

Do Rent Receipts Keep You From Owning A Home Of Your Own

Why pay rent when you buy a home on easy terms from the houses advertised for sale in our Real Estate Column. There you will find houses of all sizes and descriptions, in every part of the city, and you will find dealers who will make the terms to suit your individual financial condition.

If you are working for a moderate salary, tell your problems to the Realtor and he will help you to convert the rent you are paying into a home of your own. A few years of paying rent will buy a house. It has been estimated that a person who rents 30 years pays for at least six houses. Pay for your own house and then buy another that some one will pay you for in rent.

The Realtor will tell you how.

Grant Advances On Fort Donelson.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

FORT DONELSON, WHICH AFTER THE TAKING OF FORT HENRY BECAME THE OBJECTIVE OF GRANT'S UNION ARMY, WAS SITUATED ON THE CUMBERLAND RIVER AT DOVER, TENNESSEE. IT HAD BEEN BUILT BY THE CONFEDERATES IN THE SUMMER OF 1861, AND WAS DESIGNED AS A REAR DEFENSE OF BOWLING GREEN, KENTUCKY, AND A BARRIER TO A UNION ADVANCE ON NASHVILLE BY WAY OF THE CUMBERLAND.

GRANT DID NOT TARRY LONG AT FORT HENRY. A COUNCIL OF WAR HELD ON FEBRUARY 11TH (1862), RESULTED IN THE DECISION TO MARCH ON DONELSON WITHOUT DELAY AND THE NEXT MORNING THE ROADS LEADING IN THE DIRECTION OF DOVER WERE CHOKED WITH BLUE-CLAD TROOPS.

AT DONELSON GEN. JOHN B. FLOYD WITH SOME 15,000 CONFEDERATES MANNED THE FORT WITH ITS SURROUNDING RIFLE-PITS AND REDOUBTS AND WAITED GRIMLY FOR THE COMING OF THE FEDERALS.

THE UNION FORCES APPROACHED THE FORT ON THE AFTERNOON OF THE 12TH AND BEGAN ADVANCING TO OCCUPY THE POSITIONS ASSIGNED THEM. AFTER SOME SHARP SKIRMISHING THE CONFEDERATE PICKETS WERE FORCED TO FALL BACK TO THEIR ENTRENCHMENTS.

Lots For Sale

BERGER WOODS is now plotted and we are prepared to offer some of the finest building lots on the north side of New Castle. These lots are laid out with from 60 to 100 feet frontage and are 173 feet in depth. A large portion of the lots have from one to a half dozen beautiful big trees. All are level and include the grading of the street, sidewalks, sewer, gas and water. Proper restrictions in the deeds also add to their value. If you are planning on building this Spring, or in the near future, be among those getting first choice, as these are undoubtedly the greatest lot values being offered. Notice of Public Sale

Notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, February 9th, 1927, at eleven o'clock A. M., Eastern Standard Time, the undersigned, Receiver of Sharon & New Castle Street Railway Company will offer at Public Sale, all the property of every kind and description, including real estate, rights of way, franchises, (corporate franchises excepted), rails, ties, poles, wires, rights, privileges, licenses, grants, buildings, accounts, demands and choses in action, formerly owned and used in the operation of an interurban street car line by Sharon & New Castle Street Railway Company, from a point in the City of New Castle, beginning at the intersection of Sampson Street extended, and State Street, and extending in a generally easterly and westerly direction, through or along lands now or formerly owned by Josephine and James Duval, William and Elizabeth Brantz, Elizabeth Welsch, Frank and Mary Mockel, Mary Zuber, Ezekiel and Laura Thompson, Olive Callen, Abraham Welsch, John W. Reed, Peter and Eliza Bailey, Annie Robinson, Gertrude Clark, Alexander and Nancy Anderson, T. D. and Mary Stevenson, and Nancy A. Mars, a distance of about twelve (12) miles to a point in the Ohio-Pennsylvania State line.

Said sale will be held at the office of the Sharon & New Castle Street Railway Company located at the northeast corner of Washington Street and the Public Square in the City of New Castle, Lawrence County, in the State of Pennsylvania.

Said property will be sold subject to the interest, if any, which the City of New Castle may have in that part or portion of the property located in or along Sampson Street in said City and will also be sold subject to the reservations, covenants and conditions contained in the several original deeds conveying said property to the predecessors in title of said Sharon & New Castle Street Railway Company, but free and clear of all other liens and incumbrances.

Said sale is made pursuant to an order issued by The United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania, on or about the 24th day of December, 1926, in Equity cause No. 1659, wherein The New York Trust Company is Plaintiff, and Sharon & New Castle Street Railway Company is Defendant.

Terms are twenty-five (25%) per cent cash upon the acceptance of any bid, and the balance upon the confirmation of said sale by said Court.

Notice

To Clarence E. Caven, a presumed decedent.

You are hereby notified that the Orphans' Court of Lawrence County of January 3rd, 1927 made the following order and decree, to-wit:

"Now 3rd day of January, 1927 this matter having come on to be heard, on petition of H. A. Caven, a father of the presumed decedent, after a full hearing of the case we find that the facts set forth in complainants petition are true, and that the legal presumption of the death of the said Clarence E. Caven has been made out and that such presumption arose on the 1st day of February, 1926 and it is therefore ordered and decreed that a notice be published in the New Castle News once a week for three successive weeks, and that a notice be forthwith published requiring the said Clarence E. Caven, the presumed decedent, if alive, to produce in court satisfactory evidence of your continuance in life, such evidence to be produced within twelve weeks from the date of the last publication of the said notice."

You will therefore appear before the said Orphans' Court if you be still alive, to produce in the said court, satisfactory evidence of your continuance in life within twelve weeks from the 20th day of January, 1927; otherwise, the said decree shall be confirmed absolute.

HARVEY E. MARTIN,
Attorney for H. A. Caven,
Father of Clarence E. Caven.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. — Industrial stocks were thrown on the market in heavy volume in early trading today as a result of the further increase of $30,800,000 in brokers' borrowings reported after the close of Monday's market. Failure of the Nash Motor directors to do more than amalgamate the regular and extra dividends into a regular 4 per cent payment was a disappointment, and more than 10,000 shares awaited buyers at the beginning of trading.

Nash broke to 67, compared to Monday's close at 70¾, but the stock promptly rallied to above 69, where trading was quite lively. The balance of the motor stock list was slightly reactionary in this period, General Motors declining more than a point in the first half hour, and the low-priced motors shrinking fractionally in fairly heavy offerings.

The call money rate was 4¼ per cent today.

Professionals sold the industrial stocks "all over the board" in this period, and only in exceptional cases was there sufficient strength to move against the downward trend.

Italian Fruit Merchant Slain

(International News Service)

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 11.—Police today sought clues to the identity of the assassin who fired a bullet into the haed of Nick Pelligreno, 43, fruit merchant, fired other shots into his prostrate form, and fled, leaving the body in the kitchen of the victim's home where Mrs. Pelligreno, returning from visits to friends in Indiana, Pa., and Pittsburgh, found it.

Police held Mrs. Pelligreno when investigation revealed that the man had been dead 48 hours before they were summoned.

Cripps Hardware Store Is Robbed

The store of the Cripps Hardware Company, No. 1 West Washington street, was entered during the night, probably in the early morning hours, and a number of articles taken.

Officers Lynch and Longstreth made the investigation for the police department and found that entrance had been effected by cutting out a part of a rear door and reaching in and pulling out the bolts that held the door closed against attempts to get in.

The articles missing from the store are a 25-caliber automatic revolver of Libya make and Spanish manufacture; a 32-caliber revolver, Buffalo make and Spanish manufacture; one radio power control, one Philco battery eliminator, one Bakelite charger, one power tube and one Stevens rifle.

Japan To Reduce People's Burdens

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Jan. 11.—Annual revenues of the Japanese government will be reduced by yen 5,200,000 ($2,600,000) if the revised tax law now being drafted is passed by the forthcoming session of the Diet.

The object of the bill is to lighten the taxation burden of the people. The chief reductions will be made on registration taxes, stamp duties and sugar consumption taxes.

SKIDS INTO STREET CAR

Ed Whalen of 101 South Ray St., reported that he was driving his car north on Croton avenue at Martin street, when his machine skidded into a street car. The automobile was slightly damaged.

If the monkey is related to man, why doesn't he work long and hard for things he doesn't need?

We have been reading about child psychology today, and wonder how much time Nancy Hanks put in with a book of it.

Doing Their Share for Republicans

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, left, wife of the speaker of the house, and Mrs. Medill McCormick, wife of the late Senator from Illinois, are playing an important part in the doings of the Republican party in Washington this winter.

Reads Old Advertisement Telling Of Canal Days At Meeting Of Rotary

At the meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday, Rudy Stadelhofer read an advertisement taken from Mahoning County Register—now the Youngstown Telegram—of July 8, 1858 which was recently reprinted and shows a great contrast of travel between New Castle 70 years ago as compared with now.

At that time travel by the slow cahal boat pulled by horses took a whole day while now by train one can make the trip in about 30 minutes and by auto in not much more.

The rate at that time was quite reasonable too as the advertisement shows the fare either way to have been but 75c, and it is doubtful whether travel is any more comfortable now as "a good bed and a comfortable time" is assured by the master M. S. Marquis.

The advertisement is headed, "Tri-Weekly Canal Packet to New Castle", and just beneath is a cut of the canal boat drawn by three horses in tandem the driver sitting astride of the horse next to the boat. The remainder of the advertisement reads as follows:

"The New and splendid Canal Packet boat "EXPRESS," M. S. Marquis, Master, will make regular triweekly trips between. New Castle and Youngstown, leaving New Castle Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 o'clock in the evening. Returning, will leave Youngstown Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays on the arrival of the Express Train from Cleveland. By this route passengers can have a good bed and a comfortable time between the two points. Fare, either way, 75 cents.

Arrangements have also been made for the transportation of small quantities of freight between the above named points at the most reasonable rates. For freight or passage apply to the Captain on board. Landing at Canal Basin, opposite the Mansion House.

Youngstown, July 8, 1858. M. S. Marquis.

Man With Big Voice Is Slated For State Job

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., When Representative Charles J. McBride, of Allegheny county, chairman of the Pennsylvania house of representatives slate committee, makes his report on Monday evening, January 17, announcing the patronage in the house for the 1927 session, the name of Quay R. Hewitt, of Punxsutawney, as reading clerk, will be on the list, according to a number of members of the slate committee.

Hewitt is known in the house as "the man with the big voice." He was named reading clerk first during the session of 1909 and since that time he has grown to be an important part of the lower legislative branch.

Hewitt's strong clear voice and pleasing personality have made him a popular member of the force of house employes and at the beginning of each session of the legislature in recent years it has always been an inquiry of early visitors as to whether the "man with the big voice" will get his job again. Again he seems certain of re-appointment.

Before he became a legislative employe, Hewitt was an acrobat, traveling with "the greatest show on earth." Show folk soon learned of his powerful voice and in emergencies worked him in as ballyhoo man with the circus.

Reports Attempted Hold-up Last Night

John Burns, well-known contractor, reported to the police last night that while he had his machine parked on East Washington street in front of the Harmony Line depot there were three men leaning against the depot building. One of the number came over to the Burns car and asked for $2, and when he said he did not have it, the three men are said to have acted as if they intended a hold-up. N. S. Ray of 455 East Washington street was walking along the street at the time and advised Mr. Burns to call the police, which he did. When the police arrived the men are said to have run away.

Nicaraguan Coast Declared Neutral

(International News Service)

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, Jan. 11.—The entire Atlantic coast of Nicaragua has now been declared a neutral zone by Admiral Latimer, U. S. N., in command of the American forces here.

Two hundred U. S. Marines were landed from the transport Argonne today and occupied Rama and took positions along the mouth of the Excondido River, and at Prinza Polka, all of which were declared to be neutral zones.

National story contests prove only that judges have a fondness for mediocrity.

All-American Radio Team Is Selected

International News Service Compiles News On Men Behind Guns

Graham MacNamee Only Choice Outside Scientific World Given Recognition

By DAVID P. SENTNER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1927, By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—While man sits before his radio enjoying the pleasures brought to him through the air, the scientist responsible for its perfection sits unnoticed through the year in his research laboratory, weighing, measuring, testing.

In an effort to give public recognition to the men behind the modern miracle of radio, International News Service today compiled an all-American radio team, the concensus of opinion from members of the Institute of Radio Engineers, meeting in convention here.

All-American Radio Team.

Ralph Bown (captain), RHB., radio broadcast transmission, (A. T. and T.Z.

Lloyd Esponschied, LHB., trans-Atlantic radio telephone transmission (A. T. and T.).

E. F. W. Alexanderson, FB., picture transmission by radio, (General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.).

Graham MacNamee, QB., broadcasting announcer (National Broadcasting Co.).

L. W. Austin, LE., atmospheric disturbances (static), (Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.).

C. M. Jansky, Jr., LT., collegiate training for radio engineering (University of Minnesota.).

J. C. Warner, LG., vacuum tubes (General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.).

R. A. Hoising, C., short wave radio measurements, (A. T. and T.).

Greenlead W. Pickard, RG., fading and its causes, sun spots, twisting and reflection of radio waves, (Newton, Mass.).

Edward H. Loftin, RT., improvements in broadcast receivers, (N. Y.).

August Hund, RE., crystal oscillators, (Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.).

Dr. Bown and Dr. Esponscheid in their work on radio telephony are credited with being among those responsible for the successful inauguration of commercial transoceanic wireless telephony. Dr. Bown was awarded the Liebmann memorial prize for 1927 by the institute in connection with this field.

Dr. Alexanderson through his work on television is heralded as the inventor of the radio movie which he expects to be ready for the home within the next ten years.

MacNamee Honored.

Graham MacNamee, voted the best of the year's broadcasters, is the only choice outside the scientific field. His selection was recommended as a balancing factor and for his excellent work in reporting public spectacles to radio fandom.

L. W. Austin, in his scientific analysis of the most puzzling problem in radio, the well-known static, was voted the leading worker in this field during 1926.

Prof. Jansky, contributions toward a curricula for the future radio engineer, was considered noteworthy by his confreres.

Warner, Hoising, Loftin and Hund have all produced papers on their research work which are considered to have contributed much to the progress of the radio industry.

Dr. Pickard recently gave the results of experiments on interference of solar disturbance in radio reception in which he showed sun spots in many cases were responsible for static.

Senators Adopt Reed Resolution Calling For Probe

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — The Senate today adopted the Reed resolution, calling on the treasury department for an explanation of the charges that government dry agents operated "speak-easies" to entrap bootleggers.

The resolution, sponsored by Senator Reed (D.) of Missouri, asked the treasury for all orders and correspondence relative to undercover agents "and the activities of said agents in the entrapment of citizens through the establishment of stills, saloons, speakeasies and other like devices."

In speeches, wet leaders said that the agents who used "stills" to trap bootleggers should be sent to jail. Reed declared the "higher-ups" in the treasury should be indicted if they ordered their men to violate the prohibition law in order to catch bootleggers.

Jersey Governor Denounces Policy Toward Alcohol

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Sharp denunciation of the government's policy of poisoning industrial alcohol and a plea for the submission of the liquor question to a state-wide referendum, were made by Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey in his address at the 1927 state legislature, which convened today.

The executive roundly scored the government's denaturing policy, which he characterized as the "best evidence possible that even the government realizes that its efforts to enforce the law through the medium of the Volstead act is a colossal failure."

REPORTS SEEING MAN WANTED IN CLEVELAND

J. A. Prater of the Arlington hotel in the seventh ward, reported to the police last night that the day before Christmas he had given something to eat to a man, who said that his name was James Carroll and that he had come here from Cleveland. He said he was going to Pittsburgh to work as a cook in a restaurant at that place. Carroll is the man sought by Cleveland authorities because of the illness of his wife, also a death in the family.

MOTHER OF THREE CHILDREN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

(International News Service)

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 11.—When their automobile skidded on the slippery pavement and upset as they were returning from a wake in this city, Mrs. Agnatz Yedzinskas, 31, mother of three children, was crushed to death and five others in the party had a miraculous escape from a similar fate early today.

Mrs. Ignatz Berzanzkas, 27, was the most seriously hurt, the husbands of both women, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Pumos, suffering minor injuries.

Mrs. Yedzinskas was pinned beneath the overturned car.

Victims were given first aid at a nearby farmhouse before police rushed them to Nanticoke for treatment.

TOMORROW WILL NEED MEN—

Who have learned to hold today in high respect.
Who would rather be right than prosperous.
Who cannot be terrified from doing great deeds.
Who dare to take their orders directly from the people.
Who spent today in preparation for big tasks.
Who can think and will let others think.
Who will do with ease what we [illegible] called impossible today.
